OUR PLATFORM. THE UNION—THE CONSTITUTION—AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

THE UNITED STATES LAWS ARE PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY IN THE PENNSYLVANIA DAILY TELEGRAPH.

HARRISBURG, PA. Monday Morning, January 13, 1862.

PEOPLES STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the members of the Peoples State Central Committee will be held at Corvairs Hotel, Harrisburg, on WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22d, 1862, to determine the time and place for holding a State Convention to nominate State candidates, and to transact such other business as may be presented.

ALEX. K. MCCLURE, Chairman. GEO. W. HAMMERSLEY, Secretaries. JOHN M. SULLIVAN.

THE EMPIRE, THE BUCK-EYE AND THE KEYSTONE STATE.

While we adore the name and the reputation of the old Keystone State, and are jealously proud of all that is done in her name, we are not ungrateful of the exertions of our sister commonwealths, in responding with armed men to aid the National Administration in maintaining its authority.

These figures are from official sources. The number of troops as stated in the messages of the Governors of each of the states respectively, and the population from the last report of the census bureau.

Table with 3 columns: State, Soldiers, Population. Rows for New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania.

These figures are from official sources. The number of troops as stated in the messages of the Governors of each of the states respectively, and the population from the last report of the census bureau.

New York deserves credit for what she has done, when we consider how prone the people of the Empire State are to boast and exaggerate.

Ohio has done nobly, and can doubtless do better if a call is made and an opportunity offered. But Pennsylvania has not only exceeded both of these two states in numbers and comparison, but she has exceeded herself in loyalty and devotion to the Union.

With a commendable lack of display peculiar to our people; these troops were recruited, organized and sent into the field, while the requisitions on other states were scarcely half made up or organized.

SOUTHERN ARGUMENT.

We commend the following extract of a letter from one of the bitterest of the women rebels in the country, as containing arguments which it would be well for the peace men and anti-emanipationists to devour and digest.

We are constantly told in the north, by a class of men who conceal their treason beneath the thin veil of conservatism, that slavery has nothing to do with the rebellion, and that while the federal government is struggling to defeat the rebels, it would be recreant to the Constitution and laws of the land, if in any manner interfered with the institution of slavery.

While such arguments are being advanced to embarrass the federal authorities, the southern people are making slavery not only the cause of rebellion, but the source of all the strength of treason.

MCCLURE AND HALLOCK.

Gen. McClellan does well to keep his councils to himself. A fearful responsibility rests upon him. The people are at once patient and distrustful.

The paragraph alluded to is in the following terse and emphatic language: "We think we have this advantage of the South; while all our men are taken for the war, the rebels are left at home to carry on the agricultural pursuits, and raise all that we at home and our men in the army need to live."

We are thus able to spare all the men able to bear arms. There is but one young man left in our town, and the rest are in the army, and he will be here soon.

The Lancaster Evening Express denies in an authoritative tone, the report that President Buchanan is engaged in writing a book. We are glad to hear that this generation is to be spared this last indignity, as there are sufficient of the falsehood and treachery of the Buchanan administration.

HOW WE MISTAKE EACH OTHER.

No one will pretend to deny, who pays the least attention to the publications of a certain portion of the northern press as well as to the utterances of a certain class of northern people, that a great lack of understanding continues to be operating against the speedy settlement of the domestic difficulties of the country, so essential to its present peace and future prosperity.

There is a party in the loyal states organized and intent on a settled purpose of rendering the struggle for the vindication of the authority of the land, a disgraceful failure. This purpose is fired by a desperate political prejudice; and as long as there is a hope of giving secret aid and comfort to the enemy, these men will seem to be loyal, but as soon as they find that they can no longer render clandestine service to the rebel cause, they will seek the rendezvous of the south, throw off the mask, and like Breckinridge take up arms in the rebel army.

It would be blind folly to expect that this struggle can be carried on without damaging the institution of slavery. Those who urge such a notion, are the very men who asserted that the federal authority could not coerce a state into obedience to the federal law.

Most Republicans of Bedford county, believing that the election of a good Union Democrat at this time, would be more advantageous to the country than the election of a Republican, voted for Mr. Cessna, but they do not approve his course now, and regret the votes they have given him.

Gen. Halleck is described as being a pattern of official business. Perfectly accessible, he has nevertheless an effectual way of ridding himself of bore. A before the visitor has had time to make either his name or business known, he salutes him with "Have you any business with me, Sir?" and out what he wants; nips his long speeches in the bud; gives him a prompt reply; and bows him out.

WHEN THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT, to satisfy the cupidity of the commercial classes of England, waged a war with China, to compel the Chinese to eat opium, nothing was heard on the subject of inhumanity.

This was all right, while it brought gold into England coffers, promulgated the power of the English aristocracy, and established the prestige of the English arms. But when a band of miserable political gamblers and traitors conspire for the usurpation of the authority of this government, when social order is sought to be destroyed among the American states, and in its stead force anarchy, rapine and murder to prevail, the English government become suddenly converted to the principle of man's ability to rule, by seeking to make the bloody designs of a rebellion the most patriotic efforts of men striving by revolution to emancipate themselves from tyranny.

Whatever may be the influence which Great Britain may have on the balance of mankind, that nation wields no other the preference; opinions or desires of the people of these United States. That her statesmen are endeavoring to do so, is self-evident, but the instincts of the American people and their utter aversion for all that is British, annul this attempted interference, and will culminate some day in the reparation due to our insulted honor and humiliated dignity.

ONE OF OUR COTEMPORARIES seems to be impressed with the strangeness of the necessity of discriminating between Democrats with the title of Union Democrats and other Democrats.
