The American people are descendants of Europeans who sought America as an asylum from monarchial oppression, and who by so doing sundered the ties that bound them to the kingdoms of their several nativities, and they became, as their children afterwards were by birth, American citizens. They were no onger Germans, Irishmen, Frenchmen, Englishmen, &c., but legally Americans, and as such they and their posterity scorn to call any other country a "mother country." American freedom and her glorious form of government had a higher origin than could possibly be de-rived from the pampered and rotten institutions that England glories in. Many of the horses had been brought hither soners, and a large number of wagons, with one hundred Indian horses, were taken. The rebel loss was twelve killed and twenty which had inst resched Lowis III to be utterly worthless, while the others were not worth twenty dollars apiece. Some were blind, spavined, ring-boned and affected with every other disease to which horse flesh is heir. These 485 horses cost the government $58,200, and $10,000 more to get them to Louisville. They were purchased in Pennsylvania, and be-longed to Col. Williams' regiment of cavalry. Two millions of dollars were placed in the hands of an incompetent editor of a newspaper for dis-bursement. He went straightway into the purchase of linen pantaloons, straw hats, London Porter and dried herrings, until he spent two hundred and forty thousand dollars. He then got scared and quit. Firewood has been contracted and drawn at seven dollars a cord, while the Government was left to draw the wood. He noticed other abuses, saying that a hundred millions have been expended since Congress met in December for the army in repose. What, then, will the expenditure be when that coveted day of our army in motion arrives. When the history of the present times shall be writ-ten, the question will be determined whether the guilt will rest on him who conspired to destroy the country, or upon who conspired to destroy the country, or upon-him who proved incompetent to preserve the institutions bequeathed to him by our fathers. was the book that our forefathers loved and took counsel from, and they learned therein the value, capacity and inalienable rights of a human being : and they shaped our form of free government to suit all of our wants and exigencies as a free and enlightened nation; just as our God and Heavenly Father indicated them in that blessed book. Heaven then is the parental country of American freemen, and not rot-ten, tottering England. It is a libel for England to assume a parental relation toward us and we resenting if fing it back to her. We are nationally as distinct from the English as we are from the Hottentots. It is true that α few Englishmen have emigrated to America, and have becomce one with us; but to their credit we may say that they have renounced their citizonship in England, and they and their posterity are Americans, and we all regard them as such. Our flag protects them as such from future English tyranny. Further if all of Eng-land, including the Royal family, were to emi-grate hither, and take the oath of allegiance they would receive the same rights and prerogatives of other loyal citizens of this Union and cease to be Ebglishmen thereafter. We trust, however, that the day is not distant when British soil will be free, and Britons, whether English, Irish, Scotch or Welsh will no longer need to Americanize themselves to enjoy the inalienable rights God gave them. In the meantime let us consider whether it would not be to our advantage to contract our commercial relations with England, who has shown herself to be so bitter an enemy of ours. Taking the earliest opportunity to make war upon us, when we already have made large drafts upon the patriotism of our people, to quell an unnatural rebellion, and whose bluster and insolence only was foiled by the superior statesmanship of our present administration, and their strict adherence to the American version of neutral international law.
