HARRISBURG, PA. Saturday Morning, January 18, 1862.

REGIMENTAL PARADE.—Col. Campbell's regiment, (the Fifty-fourth Pennsylvania), with its band, from Camp Curtin, favored our citizens with a street parade yesterday.

ANOTHER LABOR PORKER.—Mr. Asa Botts of Milltown, killed a "pig" a few days since, and the weight of it was 174 pounds, clean meat. The pig was but 17 months old.

THE GROTTOS MESS HALL continues to be well patronized, which is due not only to the excellence of the management, but to the merit of the performances. There is nothing stiff or conventional about the "Grotto," and order and quiet are always observed.

CELEBRATED SONGSTRESS COMING.—Madam Annie Bishop, of Operatic celebrity, will give two grand concerts in Brant's Hall, next Wednesday and Thursday evenings. She will be assisted by several distinguished musical artists, which will render the entertainments highly attractive.

TIMBER.—The Clearfield Journal of last week says: "On Sunday night and on Monday, some five or six inches of snow-fall in this section of country, which had the effect of making our roads quite lively. Persons engaged in hauling are making good use of the snow, as it enables them to draw their timber with much more ease than on the bare ground."

NORTHERN CENTRAL RAILROAD.—The General Freight Agent of this road gives notice, that all special rates on local freights over this road, made prior to or during the past year, (1861), cease to be in effect on the 31st December last. Hereafter all special rates will expire by limitation on the last day of the year in which they are made, except in cases where special agreements have been made to the contrary.

THE QUESTION "POPPED."—The attention of those who anticipate advertising certain interesting transactions is directed to the top of the last column on the first page, where rates of advertising, local notices &c., are published. If it is worth while to get married and have the fact published, it is proper to pay parties for doing it, and publishers do not like to ask ministers or justices for their fees, and yet it is not aristocratic nor genteel to draw a prize and never pay for the tickets. See rates of advertising marriage notices.

SERIOUS RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A man named Michael Connel, a switch-tender on the Northern Central railroad, was severely injured last night, while in the performance of his duty, at Marysville, several miles above the city, by being run over by the cars on the Pennsylvania railroad. The wounded man was brought to this city, and under the direction of Mr. Young, Superintendent of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was provided with lodgings at the City Hotel, near the depot, where he was attended by Dr. Rutherford, who amputated his right arm near the shoulder, and performed other services as were necessary under the circumstances. The condition of the wounded man this morning was very favorable, inspiring his friends with flattering hopes of his speedy recovery. He is a single man, and a resident of Baltimore.

COOLNESS OF THE BUCKTAILS.—A correspondent writes from one of the northern counties in this State, where the Bucktails were recruited, as follows: "I want to hear something of the Pennsylvanians. I know the boys who fought at Drainsville and flashed their maiden swords under Gen. Ord, and I will know when they met the foe some body would die. I must give you an incident or two of that fight: Charles Yahn, a young man from this vicinity, was struck through the face, shattering the jaw and knocking out teeth, making a very ugly and painful wound. Spitting the blood from his mouth, he headed a cartridge to his next neighbor, saying, 'I can fight yet, if I can't blow.' And thus he fought it out, getting his wounds to bite off the cartridges, and he is now recovering under the hands of the surgeon. Another was struck over the eye by a spent ball, cutting the skin but not entering the skull. He coolly picked up the bullet, remarking, 'there is the Secession lead that struck me,' and put the little memento into his pocket. This is the sort of men Pennsylvania has in the national army, and I want to hear more of them."

SANFORD'S OPERA HOUSE.—The Happy Side of Daily Life in Dixie.—If to laugh is all that is necessary to grow fat, then we need have no lack of carnivorous individuals in this community while Sanford is with us. Every body laughs at Sanford's, and every body is in a good humor after being there. The performance of Uncle Tom's Cabin last night was a perfect hit, and was duly appreciated by the large and respectable audience present. All done well. Sanford's representation of Uncle Tom was a perfect piece of acting in every part, whether in the cry old dorkie, or the more serious moments when he contemplated the effect of the conduct of George Harris, who was on the eve of taking his departure for Canada. "Bones," as Tony, was inimitable as usual, full of fun and tricks. Carnross, as George Harris, with his sweet and admirable voice, and his rendering of the tender passion, was very good. A Becket as lame Jake, the jealous nigger, and Hall as the inquisitive nigger, sustained their parts well. Edmonds as Aunt Chloe, and Shackleton as Eliza, delineated their characters admirably throughout. Indeed, all the performers did so well that we do not know who to praise most, and we have no fault to find with any. The whole company seemed to forget that they were only delineating life among the happy dandies of the south, they entered into the dances, songs and marriage festivals with so much earnestness. To appreciate Sanford you must go and see him. It requires an effort of the mind to realize that we are not among the happy dandies, but in the neat and cozy pen House of Sanford.

FOUND.—A Ladies' Gold Pencil was found on Third street. The owner can have it by calling at this office, proving property and paying for this advertisement. It.

EYE AND EAR.—Dr. Jones, of New York, the great Eye and Ear Doctor will practice at Herr's Hotel, Harrisburg, on the 20th of January to the 10th of February. Dr. Jones cures all curable diseases of the Eye, Ear and Throat, and performs all delicate operations in Surgery. Dr. J. has had the advantages of the Medical Institutions of America and Europe—his Diplomas hang in his office. He introduces Artificial Eyes and Ear Drums. He has spectacles for near-sighted persons and aged persons.

Science has accomplished no greater triumph than that in which it assists in preserving the viands and the fruits of the season, so as to enable the housewife to bring them on her table as fresh and luscious as when they were plucked from the garden and orchard. Dock & Co., in Market street, have an abundant stock of vegetables and fruits thus preserved, as will be seen by their advertisement. They have peaches almost as fresh as when they hung on the tree—grapes as fragrant as when they perfumed the vineyard—vegetables certainly as healthy and as delicious as when they were yet growing in the garden. All this is the triumph of science—and we are puzzled which to admire most, the science which thus preserves the fruits of the earth, or the enterprise which enables our citizens to partake of and enjoy these luxuries.

THE THREE CAMP DISEASES.—Soldiers in camp suffer from three diseases; diarrhoea, rheumatism and fever. The commonest cause of diarrhoea is bad water; its cure, complete rest, and abstinence from every kind of food except plain boiled rice. All ordinary diseases will yield to this treatment in two and a half hours or less. Rheumatism is usually brought on, not by getting wet, but by remaining in wet clothes. Hard drinkers are particularly liable to bad attacks. To avoid rheumatism, wear flannel and keep the digestion sound. Fevers are generally caught after dark in the open air. A man going out on night duty should never go hungry and never stand still longer than necessary. Good food and active exercise will generally keep a man well unless the air is uncommonly deleterious. To cure a case of not very severe fever, nothing seems so efficacious as a change of air. It is said that the removal of a patient only a few miles often works an immediate improvement in his condition. In scouting along the edge of a swamp at night, there is no danger so long as the party keeps on the windward side of it. These doctrines are laid down in the writings of army surgeons and of physicians who have given much attention to the subjects discussed, and ought therefore to be trustworthy.

A DECIDED SKEL.—An individual calling himself the original "Fakir of Ava" arrived in our city a few days ago, and put out flaming posters advertising an entertainment in the "prestidigitatory" art at Brant's Hall Thursday evening, and by means of the "gift" game he managed to secure an overwhelming house. Each of the audience, upon entering the hall, was taken to draw an envelope containing a "chance" for one of the gifts advertised to be distributed, including among other things a "splendid horse valued at $100," a fine gold watch, suits of clothes, a sewing machine and barrels of flour. The performances, which were of a very indifferent character, having concluded, the "Fakir" informed the audience that by presenting their envelopes at the ticket office a portion of the gifts would be distributed immediately, and the remainder at the Hall yesterday morning. Although this announcement didn't exactly meet with the approval of the audience still there was no outward manifestation of displeasure, and as some few of those who presented their envelopes were of the lucky recipients of various articles of cheap jewelry, the majority of the audience were led to believe that things were working on the "square," and accordingly resolved to withhold their envelopes. Thus matters remained until next morning, when a large crowd of the envelope holders congregated around Brant's Hall anxiously awaiting the appearance of the Fakir. They waited an hour, then another, and another, and still the Fakir failed to show himself. At length the crowd began to grow testy and impatient, and threats were made to seize on the magician's "furniture," but this it was ascertained had all been removed the night previous, whereat the now excited crowd began to "smell an exceedingly small mice," which animal became the more apparent when it was discovered upon inquiry at his hotel that the distinguished Fakir had ingloriously fled the city for parts unknown, between "the sitting and the rising of the sun," leaving behind him not only the numerous unsatisfied "chances" for a "valuable prize," but other little "reminders" in the shape of unsettled hotel and store bills, all of which we presume the holders will retain as mementoes of the Fakir's "last trick"—his sudden and mysterious disappearance.
