thirty-two pounders, and at every fire their ranks were terribly thinned. The places of the fallen, however, were quickly filled.

Pork point battery was manned by the Rich-mond Blues, and most hobly did they defauld t during the conflict. They were attacked by a whole regiment of Zouaves, and, though complately overpowered, they stood their ground pravely, nor did they rield one foot, until all, save seven, fell bleeding to the ground. There is good reason to believe that, had Col. Henningson, with his affillery, been on the island, they should nat have been forced to surrender . it. . i. A clacks of sheld spieces, was most sadly, felt, and had they been at hand the enemy, perhaps would never have been able to have landed their forces. Henningsen had orders, we understand; to report at Roanoke Island, but by some misunderstand ing he mistook Elisabeth city for the place of destination. Capt.
