EXCITEMENT IN THE CITY .- The dispatch received at the EVENING TELEGRAPH office Sunday evening, and bulletined by transparencies at the windows, announcing the capture of Fort Donnelson, created an intense excitement throughout the city, and our office was quickly besieged by a large multitude of people, anxious to learn the particulars of the great battle. The glorious news was received with the liveliest satisfaction by our citizens, and the sanctity of the day alone restrained them from giving vent to their elated spirits by demonstrations of a more jubilant and emptatic character. This same feeling continued to manifest itself this morning, and from the mast head of more than a hundred flag-staffs throughout the city the "stars and stripes" unfurled their meteor like hues in the ambient airaglorious token that amid the crash and din of the hard fought battle-"the rockets red glare grapic despatches this evening.

"Gideon's Band." -The refrain of "Gideon's Band" has become quite popular in the Pennsylvania eucampments, but from the following incident it is apparent that its popularity does not extend to other regiments. A day or two since a party of officers were walking up the street, when they met a Major of a regiment from the Empire State. After the customary his presence was requested, if he belonged to "Gideou's Band." To the amusement of all, we can confidently expect peace and happiness, he calmly and innocently observed: No!
