Pea Ridge, Arkansas, March 9th. GENERAL :-- On Thursday the 15th inst., the enemy commenced an attack on my right, assailing and following the rear guard of detachments under General Siegel to my main lines on Sugar Creek Hollows, but ceased firing when he met my reintorcements about four o'clock, P. M. During the night I became convinced that he had moved on so as to attack my right or rear. Therefore early on the 9th I ordered a change of the front on my right, which thus becoming, my left still rested on Sugar Creek Hollow; this brought my line across Pea Ridge with my new right resting on the head of Cross Timber Hollow, which is the head of Big Sugar Creek. I also ordered an advance of cavalry and light artillery under Col. Osterhans, with orders to would have pronounced it so it ever the case attack and break whatever he supposed would came before them. Such a sweeping proportion be the reinforced line of the enemy. This movement was in progress when the enemy, at 11 A. M., commenced the attack on my right. The fight continued warmly at these points during the day, the enemy having gained the point held in command by Col. Carr, at Cross Timber hollow, but was entirely repulsed with the fall of the rebel commander McCulloch in the centre by the forces under Col. Jeff. C. Davis, of Missouri.

The plan of the attack on the centre was galiantly carried forward by Col. Osterhans, who was immediately sustained and superseded by Col. Davis' entire division, supported also and continuous fire all day.

In the evening, the firing having entirely ceased in the centre and the right, being now on the left, I now reinforced the right by portion of 2nd division, under Gen. Asboth. Before the day closed I was convinced that the enemy had concentrated his main force on the enemy had concentrated his main force on the right, therefore, I commenced another change of front forward, so as to face on the enemy where he had deployed on my right flank in strong p. sition. The change had been partially effected, but was fully in progress when, at sunrise on the 8th, my right and centre renewed the firing, which was immediately an swered by the enemy with renewed energy along the whole extent of his line. ments of justices of the peace.
