PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFIGIAL HOSTITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860,—Elien S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheamatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she look cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no deeded chill. Two days later her ankles began as swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to-call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylemaine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great cenefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journais, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always increditous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of asute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fall to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very succassful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronto rheamatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronto affection. The wrists and knucktes were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 28, 1880.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was celled at our last lecture, has also continued to do weir I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute sheumatism, and if the result be satisatory, it think, as good jurymen, we snall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin. He is a seaman, set 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had coassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swotlers, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This genueman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attlendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected. does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attlendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a locure on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new country we are. Issting, and to exhibit to you thus representative or the property of the property of the property of the medicine in the property of the property of the property of all other medicines, even anotypes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

Jump 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acuter heumatism before you at our clinic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along ever nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute resumetism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive oy as to the values of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylacing, the patents a type researed their has the opylacelue, the patients nave regained their health son earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pur-sel. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it,

A little overn year past, going into my blacksmith shop after dark, I hurt my right leg also, below the wnee. I tepread all round the leg, and became a running sore. Several Doctors told me I must have my leg taken off, mortification having taken place. Fortunately I got a bottle of your Golden Electric Oil for my child's sore mouth. It cured so soon that I thought I would try it on my legs, I have been justed the bout six weeks, and my legs are now healed up second and well.
