PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1800.—Elles S., set. 28, single, never was very strong I wo years ago she had an attack of acute rheematism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in bouse cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and paintui; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic lever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the varius symptoms which present themselves. My chief object to bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remody which has, recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I much propose the recommended in the highest terms, having derives great ueseft from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commonatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confest I am lays and the comes to us recommended as a pecifics; but this comes to us recommended as highly, thas we are housek to give its trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 28, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propyismine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatum. She has steedily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked ohange in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemee, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from or nois rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervaning upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swolles and teuse. She took the coloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr I will now bring before you a very obtracteristic case of soute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, sat. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheumatic patus, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His putse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute, heumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, sweats articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on a cute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I nave called it, than which there may be no mingivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

Juris 9, 1860.—The next of our convalencents is the case of acuter beumatism before you at our clinic of May 28th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for tosting the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily was remarked was a fair opportunity for toxing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain dosed every two hours for four days. The patient has you along very nucly, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of coute rheu natism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to dende positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of Provitaming the nations of the reaction of the provided that health Propylamine, the patients nive recained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished doctors and rejoicing patients.

BARR—DRAR SIR:—As I have learned that you have purchased the right to manufacture and sell M'Connell's Golden Electric vill, for the benefit of the afflicted, I send the following:—I have been afflicted with a running sore on my lett leg for ten years. During that time I have been under the treatment of ten of the best Doctors in Harrisburg, Saltimore and Cumberland county; but all could not effect a cure. A little over a year past, going into my blaccamith shop after dark, I hurt my right leg also, below the snee. I spread all around the leg, and became a running sore. Saveral loctors told me I must have my leg taken off, mornification having taken place. Fortunately I got a bottle of your Golden Electric vill for my child's sore mouts. It coured as soon that I thought I would try it on my legs. I have been using it about six weeks, and my legs are now healed up—sound and well.
