April 1, 1862.

Mr. EDITOR :- This morning the 5th Army corps, Major General N. P. Banks command- of the people of the town and neighborhood, in in person, left Strasburg, in the vicinity of permitting the building of gun boats and the which it has been encamped during the past week, and moved on toward Mount Jackson, distant twenty miles, at which point Gen. Jackson, with a force of thirty thousand men lished by the importation of troops from a disis lying. The division of General Shields took the advance, and the division of General Williams following as a reserve. The day was warm and roads good, but very dusty. All siong the route evidence of the terrible desolation which Virginia is sustaining were apparent, yet many of her people still persistently and blindly cling to the fortunes of

Davis & Co. On reaching Woodstock, the county seat of Shendanoah county, a pleasant little place, our advance had a skirmish with Ashby's cavalry, who were covering the retreat of a small body of Jackson's men, but upon our artillery being trought into position and a few shells sent my had thrown up breast works, east of boys capturing two prisoners. On crossing the Shendanoah river, some three miles beyond Woodstock, they set fire to the turnpike bridge, but so closely did we pursue them that our troops extinguished the fire before any material damage was done. Three miles further on, however, they set fire to the railroad bridge, a fine and costly structure which was entirely consumed. We marched through Woodstock to the tune of "Dixie," and but four ladies in the whole place had the patriotism to wave To Com. S. C. To-morrow we move forward Five Days Later from Europe. and a lively brush is anticipated, as Jackson cannot help but make a stand, or prove himself a most arrant coward.

As we progress I will, if our mails permit, give you the incidents of our journey. Yours, as ever,

The batteries having been shandoned and their armament removed by John Stevens are becoming quite frequent in Venitia, and numerous arrests are reported the Delaware, Lieutenant commanding Quaca though they had been driven very deep in at Mantau and Venice.

At eleven o'clock last night we arrived abreast the town, the Delaware being from the transport, the field officers, two companies of roops and the regimental band were landed. The authorities, with many of the citizens, met us on the wharf, where I briefly explained to them the object of our visit. The military then formed, and we proceeded to the Court House, where, with all the ceremonies, we solsted the flag of the Union. The troops re-turned to the Delaware with unbroken front.

I found, on further consultation with the authorities, on whom I made my demand for the restoration of the Hatterss light house property, that underlying an apparent acquiescence onstruction of batteries to repel the approach of the United States, was a deep routed affection for the Union, and not a little animosity for its enemies The latter element not being diminant State. The result of this state of affairs was to be an ticipated, the abandonment of its defences by the troops, followed by the destruction of what remained of rebel property by the people. The launched gunuoat had been towed several miles up the river loaded with terpentine and fired on the night of our arrival: A few flundred bushels of meal and corn left in the commissary stores was distributed to the people by my orders. The most valuable part of the Hatterss light property, the lenses, have been taken to Farborough. I have hopes of their recovery through the instrumentality of the people of Washington. The rest of the pro perty is secure, with the channel bueys and mourings. The steamer Freeborn has arrived up from Liverpool point bringing some additional particulars, of the skirmish at Staffo d Court House. Gen Sickel's troops captured some forty horses belonging to the rebel cavalry, s number of soull arms and the mails in the Stafford post ffice in which were found many letters, some of them being probably of importance to the government. Six preioners were also taken who were brought up in the Freeborn and taken to the old capitol prison.

As the crew of the Freeborn were getting off the horses and other property captured, the rebels opened a heavy fire upon them from the tthicket, but on the Freeborn returning the compliment with shrapnel, the enemy hastily decamped.

The mails for California, Oregon and Washington Territory are now transmitted overland from St. Joseph, Mo., to which place correspondence can be sent from any post office.
