PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

MAY 19, 1860.—Elien S., set. 23, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was cenfined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last 8 stur day, while engaged in house eleaning, abe took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hanns are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rhermatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheamatic tever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themsolves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im can propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great cenesit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am slways moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vanued as apecifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I

May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propriamne, and was then laboring under an attack of scute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three granes every two hours(intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—
Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what a to be the result.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treased with propylamine, the first of tupes to winch I called your attenuous tour last cinio. The is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second c.8e to which your attention; was called at our last tetture, has also continued to do wel. T will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurynen, we small justly render our verdick in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, sat 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until cight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, teuse and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is tower and the profuse and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumansm. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumantsm, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on tild not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anolynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

Jump 9, 1860 .- The next of our convalescents is Jump, 1860.—The next of our convalencements is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our cliniq of May 36th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the work of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain deses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of ne of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and repert the results.

For a full report of which the above us a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessar, ous certificates from astonished doctor and rejoicing patients.
