COL. WILLIAM GRAY MURRAY.

The above portrait of the gallant and lamented Col. William Gray Murray, was engraved from an ambrotype likeness, taken a year or two since, and pronounced at the time a most faithful and accurate picture. We submit it, therefore, to the readers of the Telegraph, as a memento of one whose death has been so widely mourned, and whose deeds have contributed so extensively to the honor and glory of the Union. We will not repeat the events in the life of Col. Murray, nor allude again to the sad occurrence of his death. The first will always be preserved, fresh, green, and grateful in the recollection of his friends, while the latter must pass out of memory as grief is assuaged and time affords to those who loved him best, its sweet and soothing consolation.

Nashville Sketches.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette has given us an amusing sketch or two from Nashville: One of the city officials, in conversation the other day, said that when the Confederates returned to possess the city, as they certainly would, he desired to be close behind the retreating Federals, with a good gun, that he might shoot as many as possible. Owing to the high price of marketing and dry goods, I predict he will be one of the very first to go forward and swear that he will support the Constitution of swear that he will support the Constitution of the United States against foreign invasion and domestic insurrection—any law or ordinance of a State or convention to the contrary notwithstanding. He is a veteran treasury-seeker—has hung upon the city treasury under the being protection of the Stripes and Stars, for many years, like a misletce upon a sappy limb of hickory. He was never able to pay his board till he found an office. A voice comes from his titchen and his family wardrobe, saving. kitchen and his family wardrobe, saying, "Swear." I make the prediction, confidently, this man, with terrible intentions against the rear of the Federal army, will swear the cloud

The many incidents immediately preceding the precipitate flight of armed treason from cannot all be given at once. hidden beauty will arise ever and anon from the rich variety even at this late day, and lay its claim to rescue from oblivion. But yesterday a gentleman mentioned incidentally in my hearing a brilliant feat of knightly divinity, which I had not heard before. J. B. M'Farin, E. D., chief priest of the Southern Methodist publishing house, who was busy last summer making secession speeches, took an active part, just before the surrender of Fort Donelson, in the pike movement. On one occasion, he mus tered all the operatives of the publishing house, and required them to join in the general drill. While he stood before them with a pike in his hand discarting on the great things to be effected with this invention of old John Brown, some one mentioned the word "run." "Run from Lincoln!" ex-claimed the sanguinary prophet, "Never!" What a brave member the tongue is! When the running time came, our apostolical pike-man was one of the first to take Jack Fal.taff's counsel. He left without waiting to gather up his negroes, of whom he has many. One Jones, a thieving rescal, whom he has had in the Book Concern for many years, employed at good wages, being left among the rest, the Doctor of Divinity took it in his head, after an absence of about two weeks, the boy might serve him well as squire in knight errantry. So he slipped back to this Lincolnized city to carry him away But Jones, I learn, was in the whale's belly-had run away, like his master. If you se Jonas in Cincinnati, stop himi You can't long be ignorant of his presence if he visit your city, as he cannot live twenty-four hours with-out stealing something. Not finding his favorite slave, the valiant "man of God" again took his pike (the turnpike) and sneaked out as he

THE REBEL OUTRAGES ON OUR DEAD .- The committee on the conduct of the war have been taking testimony as to indignities and outrages perpetrated upon our wounded on the battle field at Bull Run, and upon the dead at subsequent periods. The testimony is full and reliable, and confirms all that has been published. Several surgeons who were taken prisoners, Capt. Ricketts and others, have sworn to acts committed by rebels on our wounded soldiers that would disgrace a nation of savages. The malignant hate and dending depravity displayed are almost incredible. Sev eral Rhode Island officers and otners testified to the treatment of our dead—skulls made into drinking cups, bones made into drum sticks, rings, &c., were produced. Alderman Schale, of Brooklyn, has been four days trying te rescue the remains of his son, who was killed on the memorable Sunday, and who had been buried by his comrades. But the body has been dug up and the bones taken way. In many instances the bones had been pried out of the shallow graves by the rebels, and the buttons, clothes, bones, all taken away as tro-phies. Testimony has been taken from the phies. Testimony has been taken from the people residing near there which shows that the atrocities were mostly committed by the Louisiana Tigers and Colonel Bartow's Georgia Regiment. The testimony is being prepared for a report to Congress on this subject, and will be ready for publication in a week or tendays. The Power of Ideas.

The following touching and felicitous illus The following touching and felicitous illustration of the power of ideas was given by Wendell Phillips in a public speech in New York:

"I was told to day a story so touching in reference to this that you must let me tell it. It is a temperance case, but it will illustrate this just as well. A mother on the green hills of Vermont was holding by the right hand a son, sixteen years old, mad with love of the sea. And as she stood by the garden gate one morning she seen years old, mad with love of the sea. And as she stood by the garden gate one morning she said: 'Edward, they tell me—for I never saw the dean ting the great templation of a seaman's life is drink. Promise me, before you quit your mother's hand, that you will not drink. 'And, said he, (for he told me the story) if gave the promise and want the clock story,) 'I gave the promise, and went the globe over, Calcutta and the Mediterranean, San Fran-cisco, the Cape of Good Hope, the North Pole and the South. You then asked me if I had a mother. I said I had never known a word from her lips. You told ine of yours at the garden gate, and to-day i am master of one of the finest packets in New York, and I came to ask you to call and see me.' How far that little candle throws its beams! that mother's word on the green hillside of Vermont! O, God be thanked for the mighty power of a single word!"

CHANGING STEP. - What is more ludicrous that an awkward couple walking arm in arm and failing entirely to keep step? It is suggestive of a heavy wagon jolting over a rough road, or music played badly out of tune, or anything else most disagreeable to sensitive nerves, and is altogether most wretched and uncomfortable both for the spectator and the parties concerned. Occasionally, by accident, they fall into keeping step for a while, and for a time they move harmonlously and with grace all identity of motion. But for the most part their progress consists of a ludicrous jogglety jerk, fearfully trying to comfort and temper. This is but an illustration of the discomfort which some men endure through life, merely for ignorance of knowing how to "keep step." Man and wife have need particularly of learning this accomplishment. As niarly of learning this accomplianment. As long as they jog along life's road in the double harness of matrimony, "keeping step," they are happy and comfortable. Suddenly some little eccentricity—a foible in one or the other interferes with the pleasant concert. Now is the time to "change step," by yielding a little on both sides to restore the harnony which was lost. But if both hold out stub-bornly, and refuse to make allowances for the difference of opinion and feeling, then all peace is forever banished from the family circle, and unless one party can brow-beat the subjection, there must always be bickerings. jealousies and petty conflicts, which will make home—which should be the happiest spot on earth-the most wretched.

The ship A. H. Stevens from Maulmain for the proposition had been rejected time and time again in the palmiest days of the republic. It was judged impolitic by the predecessors of the gentlemen now here.

The Senate, however, had just passed the bill, which was now before the House for its action. What practical good or advantage would be derived from its becoming a law.

Apart from other considerations, this is a most inauspicious time for such action. Would not inauspicious time for such action. Would not the passage of the bill strengthen them in the belief that such is the purpose of Congress?
It would be considered by the rebels as the general purpose to interfere with slavery in the States. He repeated that this territory was

Our chief article of commerce now-a-days, is commodity known in the market as "substi-utes." The article has risen from $100 to $200, again to $500, and from that to $1,000 and $1,500. On this sum, it is possible the substitutes received $200, and hill the other $1,300. To-day he went up Main street with at least fifty men at his heels. You may, therefore, infer that he coins money more rapidly than the Yankee distiller, Stearns, is now in jail with Botts, who used to make four thousand dollars a day, by furnishing his vile stuff to Southern soldiers. The fact is, this business of buying and selling substitutes is abominable all around. The men fail to obtain them—and seem willing to spend their last dollar in the effort. On the other hand, the exhibition of his person, to which the substitute is subjected, is ridiculous and Ship Island a Grave Yard.
