HARRISBURG, PA. Tuesday Afternoon, April 15, 1862.

SEVERAL CAR LOADS of "iolly tars," in the service of Uncle Sam, passed through our city this morning. They were a fine looking set of fellows, and as lively as a bag of fleas.

MAJOR FRINK, of the 11th Regiment P. V. was in this city this morning, on business connected with the Adjutant General's office. He reports the men of the gallant old Eleventh in full health and discipline, and is himself looking well and happy.

It is astonishing how "toddy" promotes independence. A well-known "brick," lying, a day or two since, in a spiritual manner, was advised in a friendly way to economise, as "flour was going up." "Let it go," said old bottlenose, "I kin git as 'high' as flour kin any

TWO FORMER CITIZENS OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY ESCAPE FROM REBELDOM.—On Tuesday, Albert the picture of the dear old home. Swisher, son of Mr. John Swisher, who removed from Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, to Richmond county, Va., nearly three years since, arrived here a few days ago, having left home secretly, on account of a movement which was in progress to force him into the rebel armya proceeding not altogether consistent with his feelings. The reason that he escaped thus far son, caused by the bite of the dog, and stated was because he held an office under the rebel government, having been postmaster at Lyell's Store, which office he exerted himself to procure, in order that he might be exempt from military duty. Suspicions had recently been excited as to his loyalty to the rebel govern ment, and measures were adopted to have him put out of office, when the next step would have been his impressment into the rebel army. His brother Ira had been drafted, but was fortunate enough to procure a substitute on the payment of $150 or $250. Substitutes, he says, are at present commanding from $500 to $2,000 There has been much indignation expressed at and are scarce at that. VICIOUS DOGS .- This morning a little colored girl made complaint before the Mayor against a woman residing in Short street, for keeping a ferocious dog, which is in the habit of snapping at and biting people almost every day. The girl exhibited a serious wound on her per that a number of boys and girls in the neighborhood had been inflicted in a similar way. The Mayor at once directed officer Campbell to proceed with the girl to the residence of the owner of the dog, and inform her that unless the brute was kept under proper restraint, it would be dispatched, and herself subjected to a criminal prosecution. We did not learn the result of the mission, but presume the owner of the vicious animal succumbed to the Mayor's orders. In this connection it is suggested that the dog law be put in force all the year round. so many big wolfish animals being allowed to hydropbobia in the rural districts, and several instances in which children have been seriously injured by dogs, have roused a good deal of HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER. feeling against the animals in certain neighrons, armed with broomsticks and mop handles snarling around the streets and mousing in the Mr. Swisher represents the secession feeling market house for stray bones have already had rebels are less tyrannical toward those suspected Dutchman's poodle-"have their tails cut off of entertaining Union sentiments than their shust pehind their ears."
