PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REFORES.]

MAY 19, 1860,—Ellen S., set. 23, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatum, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, white engaged in house deaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began sh swell, which was followed by swelling of the lane joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from sine to time call your attention to the variods symptoms which present themselves. My chief object is bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

17 MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has meadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fall to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronic rheamatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swellen and teose. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the aweiling of the joints has much diminshed.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last cliuic. She is still very coinfortable, and is now tiking three grains thrice daily. In this gase it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory-freenits. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welf! I will now bring before you a very obtracteristic case of acute rhaumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin:

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is forred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much aweating. His pulse is full and strong; and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the probase symming, so generally attlendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there ou did not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient romedy. You other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgiving; as to which was the efficient romedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JURES, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the JUMP9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of soute rheumatism before you'll our clinic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the work of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hositate to a ty that I have nevea seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chioride o Propylandance, the patients have regained their health Propriamine, the patients have regained their has ith much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from assonished doctor and rejoicing patients.

Dr. W. Barre—Drar Six:—As I have learned that you have purchased the right to manufacture and sell M'Connell's Golden Electric Oil, for the benefit of the afflicted, I send the following:—I have been afflicted with a running sore on my let leg for ten years. During that time I have been under the treatment of ten of the best Doctors in Harrisburg, Baltimore and Cumberland county; but all could not effect a cure. A little over a year past, going into my blacksmith shop after dark, I hurt my right leg also, below the time. It spread all a round the leg, and became a running sore. Several Dectors told me I must have my leg taken off, mortification having taken place. Fortunately I got a bottle of your Golden Electric Oil for my child's sore mouth. It cured so soft that I thought I would try it on my legs. I have been using it about six weeks, and my legs are now healed up—sound and well.
