This distressing affection—which renders I life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgances. Foung persous are too apt to comme excesses from not being aware of the dreadful conseq ences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deap that the power of proor attor is lost sconer by those falling into improper babits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervious Irratibility, Dyspepsis, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitution 1 Bebility, a Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

Take Particular Notice.

Dr. J. addresses al those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solutary habits, which roin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marrige.

These are some of the sad and melancholly effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weikness of the Bods and Limbs, Palas in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Musular Power, Paladation of the heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irratibity, Deraugement of the Destive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c...

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice induged in when alone, a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the daring of ms parents, should be snatched from all pre-pects and enjoyments of life by the con equence of deviating from the path of mature and indulging in a cartain secret habit. Such persons must, before contembation:

OFFICIAL.

Brigade, Coast Division: SIR:-I have the honor to report, for the information of the General commanding the brigade, that after landing three companies of my regiment at Slocum's landing, on the 13th inst., I was ordered to follow the Ninth New Jersey regiment. Leaving Lieutenant Colonel Thomas S. Bell at the place of disembarkation to bring forward the remainder of the regiment as soon as landed, I moved forward after the Ninth up the beach. Finding Captain Bennett's gun, from the steamer Cossack, manned by an insufficient force, I made a detail of my men, who dragged it to the point where we left the river, and then left it, with directions to Captain Bennett to apply to Lieutenant Colonel Bell for assistance when he came up. I soon after overtook Lieuenant McCooks, (U. S. N.,) six gun howitzer battery, from the gunboats, and being so ordered by General Burnside, detailed a company to assist in bringing it forward. I then pushed on with the brigade and bivouacked with it on the railroad, about six o'clock, P. M. As soon as the remaining seven companies disembarked, they were marched forward by Lieutenant Colonel Bell. On reaching Captain Bennett's gun, he made the necessary detail to bring it forward. He soon overtook Lieutenant McCook's battery, whose men were very much exhausted, and re-ceiving an order there from General Reno, through you to make every assistance in bring ing it to the front, took charge of the guns with his seven companies and the one I had left with them. The ground, before reaching the county road. The ground, before reaching the county road, being very miry, and after reaching it, exceedingly heavy, the labor was necessarily very severe, and their progress very slow. He proceeded with the battery, and Bennett's gun which had overtaken him, until 9½ P. M., when an orderly, that he had sent on to General Burnside, returned with a message that he might bivouack if he thought best, but to have the guns up early in the morning. As the might bivouack if he thought best, but to have the guns up early in the morning. As the men seemed utterly unable to proceed without some rest, they bivouacked until between one and two o'clock, A. M. He then moved them forward, and reported his arrival and all the guns to Generals Burnside and Reno, at their Headquarters at four o'clock, A. M. The companies were again biviouacked until between six and seven o'clock, A. M., when in accord-ance with General Reno's order, they united with me on the railroad. The movement on he enemy was commenced almost immediately the enemy was commenced almost immediately afterwards, and in my position, I proceeded up the railroad, and, when near the enemy's works, filed to the left into the woods with my brigade. I received the order to proceed to the extreme left, to support the Ninth New Jersey, and resist any attack of the enemy from their works on the left. The Ninth was soon engaged and under a very heart for soon engaged, and under a very heavy fire I brought my regiment into line, supporting the Ninth with my right wing, and with the

While in this position, I received the order from General Reno, to send my left wing to the assistance of the Fifty-first New York, engaged on the right, whose ammunition was running short. The left wing, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Bell, immediately marched on the double quick, to where the first New York was engaged, and was formed in line on the crest of the small hill about one first New York was

The following notice was read from the clerk's desk immediately after the adjournment night. During the engagement none of my men were wounded. It is with pleasure that I am able to make particular mention of Lieutenant Colonel Bell, who so galiantly led the charge of the left with pleasure the services rendered by Lieutenants Fair, Beaver and Carman, who were very active from the time of landing, and especially during the engagements. They had previously been detailed to act as aids to me. Lieutenant Bible, my Adjutant, was also very active and efficient. Mr. Browning, (III.,) presented a petition for a Ship canal from Lake Michigan to the Missis

The hill authorizes the President to refuse the clearance of any vessel, where he has reason to be-lieve that its cargo is intended to reach the rebels. It also authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to prohibit the transportation on rail-roads of certain goods, which might in any way reach or fall into the hands of the

Mr. WADE, (Ohio,) presented two petitions in favor of the confiscation measure. Mr. SHERMAN's resolution calling for the reports of the officers commanding at the battles of Pittsburg Landing, was taken up. The enemy's fortifications at Williamsburg were most formidable.

We have had a great battle, and our New York men like yours, and indeed all the other regiments, behaved themselves in a manner worthy of veterans.

Albert Everman, Company D, and Sergeant Dickson and Wm. Smith.

Mr. Sherman said he in common with other citizens of Ohio was pained by the slurs that had been cast upon certain Ohio regiments, particularly in that battle, especially by the Chicago papers, and further by the Senator from Kentucky, (Mr. Powell.) who may not be distinguished for his sympathy with the cause. It was reported that some of those regiments had fied without firing a gun. He referred to the 53d regiment, who according to all reports fired two rounds and then retreated in order of Col. Mr. Sherman said he in common with other two rounds and then retreated in order of Col.

Appley, who left and was not seen any more during the day. But the regiment rallied and and fought during Sunday and Monday. He had no desire to do any injustice to Col Appley, but it was evident that the regiment's only fault was in having a faithless officer. This colonel he understood has been cashiered because he refused to fight on that day.

In regard to the 77th Ohio, the reporters are all incorrect. Though they were raw troops they fought bravely and well, notwithstauding Gen Sherman's report was against them. This regiment lost 221 men, killed, wounded and missing. He also defended the 71st regiment from the charge of cowardice. They were all fresh, raw troops, who were called upon to bear the first attack in that battle.

He referred to the conduct of other Ohio regiments, who fought with the most determined bravery, and held their position under a severe fire from the enemy, till they were ordered to fall back, which they did in good order. He denied the reports about Prentiss being sur-
