PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROW OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[MAY 19, 1860.—Elles S., zs. 22, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumansem, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and paloful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My ohief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im an propylamins. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great conduct from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and i propose therefore to give it another trial. I must concess to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER! [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

Bistar 22, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was a tien laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fall to notice a marked change in the spearance of her joints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Thur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while barore we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of ... a same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrist and knuckles were much swellen and tucse. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminizated.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very consfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly ronder our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, et. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and lator, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tenes and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This genieman is what may be called a strictly typical case of soute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severs articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fevor and the profuse sweating, se generally stitendant on a case rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a locture on all the polius connected with rheumatism, but to axain give a trial to the new remedy we are festing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on his typical case, as i have called it, than which there on his typical case, as i have called it, than which these of all other medicines, even anolynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUNE 9, 1880.—The next of our convalencents is the case of soute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore stoadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very needy, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have nevos seen as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so seen restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive up as to the val. without being prepared to decide positive up as to the val-ue of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propriamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pur-
