PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HORFITAL REFORTS-]

[MAY 19, 1860,—Ellea S., mt. 23, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumanism, from which she was confined to her bod for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Saturday, while engaged in house eleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so decided chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch this case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great nenefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

EMAY 23, 1860.—I will now oxhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatem. He has stealily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fall to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemon, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of lessure medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a nronto rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chrodic affection. The wrists and knuckies were much swolled and torse. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain does every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of these to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now t-king three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory reacts. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we small justly render our verticit in favor of propylsmin

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocasilonal rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen tense and tender. His tongue is farred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His putse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attiendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving yous lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to extilist to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there ou uit not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anolynes, that there may be no migriving as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

Juns 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case or acute rhoumatism before you at our clinic or May 36th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was romarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doese every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very uncely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have never soon as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Choride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health Propylamine, the patients now regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Survical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med cal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from autonished ductor and rejoicing patients.
