THE UNION-THE CONSTITUTION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

HARRISBURG, PA.

Saturday Morning, May 24, 1862.

REBEL SYMPATHISERS, in the opinion of somor our radical cotemporaries, find strange sources of consolation for rebel disasters. They have a strange system of explaining the accidents and the logical results of war, never failing as they thus draw consolation from gloom and dispair, to fix a reason in the minds of their deluded followers, such as only tends for a while to postpone the unalterable misery and desolation awaiting the authors and proseoutors of the rebellion. Is one of their strong holds, fortified with immense labor, evacuated, they see profound "strategy" on the part of the rebel officers in that. Are their forts, one after another, surrendered, their cities taken, their vessels sunk or captured, their armies unable to maintain a position, they discover in the state. great encouragement for the rebel cause in all these. Their jollity is in the inverse ratio to any real cause of it. If Beauregard were utterly routed at Corinth and his army cut in pieces or taken, they would insist that this was part of their own programme. One of the Richmond papers has proposed an ingenious and certainly a most comforting theory on the sub. ject. According to this view every defeat renders them stronger, because it drives them further back. The sea coast in all its extent is not worth the holding, and cities and towns are mere incumbrances to military defence. When they are driven in the fastnesses of the mountains and hemmed in on every side, the confederacy will be completely ginning to acknowledge the obligation under established and invincible. Its capital upon some rocky peak; its supplies to be gathered from ravines and mountain sides; the rem. knowledgments are with reference to the treatnants of its armies collected into one-then, according to the theory, will its "lines of defence be shortened," and its entire strength "concentrated for the most determined resistance to federal arms and invasion." This the state languishing with disease or mangled cheerful view of their diseasers may serve to by battle, but as each regiment left the state, comfort silly women and children, or half-these preparations were made, and every accomwitted men among the rebels. But the more modation secured at home and abroad, for the hope in the "strategy" of perpetual defeat, know the rebel cause is now utterly hopeless. In the outset, and for several months after his side were the means of relief, afforded with wards, they might have felt sanguine; for a out display or confusion, and contributed with-

THE PENESYLVANIA RAILROAD, while it affords the greatest illustration of the energy and enenterpise of our people, is also beginning to attract in Europe, for its management, the greatest commendation. The London Examiner, in an able article indicates, how an intelligent European authority appreciates this management. While commenting on the financial condition State of Indiana, Executive Department, and resources of the road, the Examiner says that the point to which it desires to draw attention is, that out of the net profits there is nearly as much devoted to the redemption of debt as to the payment of dividends, and a sum nearly as large as both sinking fund and dividend fund united, is applied to the purchase of locomotives and cars to meet the increased business of the line. Our English system is to ignore posterity on the principle that posterity never did anything for us. The Pennsylvania railroad company appears to carry its consideration for posterity to the utmost limits. Perhaps there is a happy medium wherein both systems might unite with advantage. But there is such a contrast between the practice of this American line and that of our English railways, that we cannot resist the opportunity of pointing

We submit, briefly, the letter of Governor Morton, to His Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania:

Indianapolis, April 8, 1862. Sin :- I am directed by Governor Morton to scknowledge the receipt of your esteemed favor of the 5th inst, and to tender his grateful thanks to his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, and to yourself, for the kind and humane treatment Lieutenants Lindsey and Slocum, of the Fourteenth Indiana regiment, have received at your hands.

Arrangements are now being matured in this State for taking care of all the sick and wounded who may be sent to us, without regard to the States to which they may belong; and indications are, that, during the progress of the pre-sent vigorous campaign of the great army of the West, there will be many such. It may be that in this way Indiana will be able in some degree to repay the kindness which your honored State has shown to our own brave men. For any future favors of a similar character which the military authorities or citizens of your State may render, the Governor can only say that he will be placed under renewed obligations, and will take pleasure in acknowledging the same in any proper manner, or in re-ciprocating the kindness in a similar way should

To the general public, Mr. Ross good officer extends beyond the scenes of his own vicinity, and among those with whom he Mr. Herr and pleasing to the people whom he has passed the best years of his life, he is well serves. On this point, the editor of the Lanknown as a man of large business capacities, caster Evening Express thus frankly refers to our unfailing intelligence and unswerving loyalty. District Attorney. The compliment is well conceived and courteously couched:

AN EFFICIENT OFFICER. - During a recent visit to Harrisburg, we fell in with an old acquaintance in the person of A. J. Herr, Esq., the present efficient District Attorney for Dauphin county, a position which he has filled with sig-nal ability for the past six years. Our previous personal acquaintance with Mr. Herr dated back to his minority, and before he had chosen a tle for the Union, Mr. Ross has entirely dis- profession. At that time his character was marked with great energy, vigor of purpose and suavity of manner, traits which the study and practice of the profession of the law have developed in the full strength of a vigorous mind, clear judgment, and unflagging industry We saw him in court, amidst a press of officia duties, and we could not fail to be impressed with the thought that here is a man who is pursuing just the profession for which both nature and education peculiarly fitted him. The business connected with the district attorneythe name of Mr. Ross; but as he shrinks from Mr. Herr is always up to the demand upon his energy, and can always find time for attending votion to the sovereignty of the federal power against the attempts of traitors to destroy the government, the people can safely rest his election, if nominated, on a test of principal such as must meet the approval of every loyal man an office in which a change should not be made except for cause. We don't know what Mr. Herr's politics is, except that his loyalty has never been, and cannot be, doubted; and his fellow citizens could not, therefore, do themselves a greater credit, or render the office a more important service, than by continuing him another term, whether he seeks it or not

A BANKRUPT LAW is still urged upon the attention of Congress by the leading merchants tained. and mechanics of the country. It should be this subject, there was a provision whereby a check our onward movement. loyal Northern merchant can seize upon rebel property anywhere and satisfy his legal demands upon it. Such a proposition alone should secure the passage of a bankrupt law, as it would speedily give prosperity to hundreds would speedily give prosperity to hundreds it would speed to have a speedily give prosperity to hundreds it would speed to have a speed to have a speedily give prosperity to hundreds it would be a speed to have a speed t and thousands of loyal merchants and manufacturers who were ruined through the rebellion, or rather through the dishonest repudia tion of private debts by rebel creditors. Doubtless this clause empowering a loyal creditor to seize the property of a traitor debtor anywhere, is waged to this measure by the old Breckinride organs in the loyal states. It holds good to judgment.

THE theory that northern soldiers are monsters is not yet given up by the Richmond papers. In the same page in which the Dispute prints an account of the humane treatment of rebel wounded by our soldiers at Williamsburg, it asserts, that of the soldiers of Gen. Bank's Poultry was wantonly slaughtered in the farm yards and eaten raw. It is asserted, and has been proven by an eye witness, that ever the dogs, cats and rats encountered on the march of this horde, were killed and eaten with a voraciousnes that betokened starvation. Indeed they had no commissary, and it is believed their conduct was attributal to directions from their officers."

> HERE IS ANOTHER SPECIMEN of the manner in which the ladies of the south conduct themselves towards the dead and the living who were and are engaged as soldiers in defence of the Union. We quote from the Newbern Standard. from wounds received in defending so heroically the old flag, was being prepared in the church yard, a well dressed lady (?) walked up in company with two others, and remarked that "they were not digging it deep enough." "Not deep enough!" exclaimed the sexton. "No, not deep enough," she replied, "dig it deeper, so that he can go to hell the quicker," and then she walked off.

THE EFFECT OF THE CONSCRIPTION RILL by the literature the greatest efforts on the illegitimate Jeff Davis dynasty has been such as to convert many persons to Unionism, and to the citizens to prevent such a catastrophe.

The number of rebel forces at Richmond and drive all who could get away, into the land of vicinity was generally believed to be fully two freedom. A large number have escaped from hundred thousand, including the unarmed and was the principal reason of the exodus of the six refugees. The bill has caused wide and the vicinity for that work is nearly thirty general dissatisfaction, and as one of the latest thousand. acts of tyranny and oppression will alienate many who would otherwise have remained faithful, from the so-called Confederacy.
