Medical ELIXIR PROPYLAMINE, THE NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. A NEW REMEDY, A CERTAIN REMEDY, FOR ACUTE RHEUMATISM, CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATISM OF EVERY KIND, HOW STUBBORN, HOW LONG STANDING, PROPYLAMINE WILL CONQUER IT, IT WILL DO AGAIN.

PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. (FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.) May 19, 1860.—Ellen S., 23, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from relapses for four more. She has been well since then till last Saturday, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, and had no decided chill. Two days later her limbs were swollen, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of Rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. Avenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specific; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I May 25, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and who was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (determining the right time by her own feelings). I found her much more comfortable, better than she is expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attacks. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement had steadily progressed, and she manifested a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

THREE DAYS LATER I! May 28, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains every two hours. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will not bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result is satisfactory, I think, as good judgment, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamine. He is a scamp, 50, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred, his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. The gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was extensive redness and swelling, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there is no other in the lower joints. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the sufficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT. A FAVORABLE VERDICT. June 3, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 30th, which I then called a typical case, and which I was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that he has never been so well as he is now. He has been restored to health as the man has been, and without being prepared to decide positively as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of Potassium, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished doctors and rejoicing patients. A SPEEDY CURE, AN EFFECTUAL CURE, THE SAME RESULT. IN EVERY CASE, WHENEVER TRIED, WHENEVER TRIED, IT WILL DO AGAIN. Bullock & Greenhaw, a firm well known to most medical men, by whom the Elixir Propylamine has been introduced, has sold to us the exclusive right to manufacture it according to the original recipe, and we have made arrangements of such magnitude as to enable us to scatter it broadcast amongst suffering humanity.

A WORD TO DOCTORS. If you prefer to use the same remedy in another form we invite your attention to the following: PURE CRYSTALLIZED CHLORIDE PROPYLAMINE, PURE PROPYLAMINE LIQUID, PURE PROPYLAMINE CONCENTRATED, PURE IODINE PROPYLAMINE, of which we are the sole manufacturers.
