PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFIGIAL HOSTIAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860.—Eign S., st. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rhounatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no deeded chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very temder, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashloushly called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamente: Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great heacht from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am aiways moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vanued as specifie; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER ! SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of soute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doese of three grains every two hours (intermiting it as inght.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now wasked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of _D same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a broad rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act on a fine with an acute attack supervening upon her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act on a fine with a soute attack supervening upon her act that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act that time with an acute attack supervening upon her act that time with an acute attack supervening and our will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 26, 1880.—This is the case of acute rheumatiam treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. Size is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory rewaits. The second case to which your atten-tion was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr. I will now bring before you a very character-istic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satistic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be sat-factory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdiet in favor of propylamin. He is a seaman, set 38, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocasational rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the holt knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swelles, touse and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.— He has now used, propylamine for twenty-four hours. his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His paise is full and strong, and about 90.— He has now used propyiamine for twenty-four hours. This genuleman is what may be called a strely typical case of acute rheumatiam. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attlendant on acute rheumatism. I did set bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a locuurs en all the points connected with rheumatism, but so again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on uld not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESILT.

JUNE 2, 1860.—The next of our convalencents is the case of acute rheumatiam before you at our clinic of May Suh, which I then called a typical case, and which it was ramarked was a fair opportunity for testing; the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not heatiate to say that I have neves even as severe a case of acute rheomatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chicride o Propylamics, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Sergical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medical authority in this country, and makes it unnece to give numerous certificates from astonished doctor
