The Federals at Ashland. From the Richmond Whig, June 2.

On Thursday morning, at nine o'clock, the nemy's cavalry, followed by infantry, entered Ashland. Our troops, quarter masters and commissaries, and even our pickete, had withdrawn, leaving valuable stores behind, inclu-ding cars filled with flour, &c. The village was swarming with the people of the neighborhood and negroes, who were helping themselves to the public stores. Mr. Critcher, of Westmoreland, and Mr. All Quiet in the Armies before Richmond

Grimes, of King George, assumed authority to order about forty negroes to push the cars about one hundred and fifty yards to the point of descent, whence they would run three miles toward Richmond; but after removing eleven cars to the point, the Yankee cavalry dashed into the village, and Messrs. Critcher and discuss assessed monitsmed Grimes escaped unpursued.

Burial of General Ashby.

The appearance of the late General Turner Ashby as he lay in his coffin at the Parish House, Charlottsville, is thus described :

"He lay there as if a gentle slumber had fal-len upon him, his physiognomy indicating re-solution, determination and firmness--heavy, black eyelashes and eyebrows, long black and thick flowing beard and moustache, prominent forehead, showing quick perception and thought, dark complexion, and an honest Virginia face. He was about forty years of age.'
