PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.)

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSTITAL REPORTS.]

[MAT 19, 1860,—Elies S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till fast Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so dedded chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and sainful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to lime call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamsine. Dr. awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredibutes as to the worth of new remedice, which are vaunted as specifics; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER! SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and wa s then inhoring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attacs. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Thur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a brouter theumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic sffection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminifiated.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

EMAY 28, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains turice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory reasits. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr! I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin

He is a seaman, set 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has has occasional rheumatic pams, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremittes. Those joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of soute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally stitendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a triai to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on the house forture.

THE RESULL!

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDIOT.

June 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rhoumatism before you at our clinic of May 36th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore, steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very otcely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to any that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylamics, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med ical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished doctors and rejoicing patients,
