PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[MAT 19, 1860,—Kiles S., st. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of aoute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bod for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, abe took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no deelded chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im-an propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always meredulous as to the worlf of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I tound her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week organore, judging from her other attacts. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—Thur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of Alexane medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronie rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tease. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain deses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminitabed.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 28, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satistatory-restlis. The second o set to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in isvor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though thore has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a faciling of oldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lever and the profuse sweating, so generally attiendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the inteation of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rhoumatism, but we again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no magiving as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

in June 9, 1880.—The next of our convalescents is the case of scute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 36th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days, the patien has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that is have never seen as severe a case of soute rheumatism gradon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to devide precitive to us to the val. without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chipride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pur sued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med ical authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous, certificates from assonished doctor and rejoicing patients.
