WASHINGTON, July 25.

The Richmond Inquirer of the 23rd inst. has received:

Its leading editorials are upon the pending exchange of prisoners. It says the basis of the exchange has been the cartel of 1812. This cartel marks an important era in the war. It is the acknowledgment of our quasi nationality. We are by it made belligerents, and the Government of the United States treats with the government of the Confederate States through commissioners.

The publication of the heavy list of the rebel losses in the late battles before Richmond is continued in the Inquirer.

The Seventh Virginia regiment, which was in an engagement during the night of Friday, 30th of June, carried about 225, and lost 141, nearly one-half.

Confidential notes are alleged to be largely in circulation in Georgia.

The Inquirer has another groan at the prices for marketing in Richmond. It says the high prices are still raging, and hucksters are making a mint of shillings.

Among the recent arrivals in Richmond are Jas. M. Randall, author of the secesh song, "Maryland, my Maryland," and Mr. Bonford, formerly law partner with Judas Benjamin. Both are refugees from New Orleans.

The Inquirer claims that one more confederate victory will end the war, and that the commissioners for a truce and armistice will meet.

Rowdiness and disorder appear to have the upper hand in Richmond, and the Inquirer complains of the bogus military guard who shoot down men wantonly, and also do a great deal of mischief in the way of robbing and brushing. It also complains of straggling desperadoes from camp, whose fixed occupation is stealing, stabbing, brushing and rowing.

Under the head of "Buell in a tight place," the Inquirer has the following dispatch:

CHARLESTON, July 21.—The enemy is concentrating a large force at Tullahoma, forty miles the other side of Stevenson. Buell's army is in a tight place.

The Inquirer has a long list of Hospitals in Richmond including fifteen army hospitals, six private hospitals and some thirty additional hospitals just opened. Hospital tents, it is stated, are being erected in Howard Grove, and Mayes & Debris warehouse, and the Danville work-house in Manchester, have been opened for hospitals.

Dr. Garnett, son-in-law to Gov. Wise, is announced as not dead but is alive and well.

The inflated condition of the Confederate paper currency has caused stocks to go up in proportion.

General Johnston's official report of the Seven Pines' battle appears under date of June 24. He excuses himself for imperfections in his report by reason of his yet weak condition from his wounds.

He charges upon Gen. Huger the fact that the Confederate plan to destroy Gen. Keyes' entire corps was not realized in consequence of Huger's delay in getting into position and ready for action. He claims as follows:

We took ten pieces of artillery, 6,000 muskets, onearrison flag and four regimental colors, besides a large quantity of tents and camp equipage. Major General Longstreet reports the loss in his command as being about 3,000; Major General G. W. Smith reports his loss at 1,283. Total, 4,283. That of the enemy is stated in their own newspapers to have exceeded 10,000, an estimate of which is no doubt short of the truth.

The Inquirer has the following:

"Copies of the Beaver Dam Bridge Burners." Gen. Stewart's cavalry are again at work, having just succeeded in overtaking a portion of the Yankee force engaged in burning the bridge at Beaver Dam. One lieutenant and six privates were captured and one killed. The prisoners admit having been engaged in the recent raid.

Baltimore, July 25.

We have received the Richmond Dispatch, of the 21st instant, from which we make the following extracts:

THE FORAY ON THE CENTRAL RAILROAD. The train which left this city yesterday morning, for the West, over the Central railroad, was obstructed in its progress by a Yankee raid on Beaver Dam station, about twenty-seven miles from Richmond. On nearing the above station, the train encountered several cross ties and trees, which had been carefully laid upon the track with a view to throw the train off, but which happily failed in the object intended. This brought the train to a halt, when a detachment of the neighborhood came up and informed the conductor that a Yankee force had made its appearance at the station, about a quarter of a mile beyond, and was engaged in tearing up the railroad track. On the receipt of this intelligence, the train put back with all possible speed, and arrived here about two o'clock P. M. It is also stated that the Yankees had fired the depot at Beaver Dam.

This a most daring and independent raid of the Yankees, and must have been effected by a comparatively small force, as they are not known to be in any considerable numbers in that locality. The impression prevails that the party committing these depredations consisted of cavalry scouts from Caroline or Spotsylvania counties, and that the raid was perpetrated with the hope of cutting off communication with our forces between this city and the Rapidan.

Besides obstructing the railroad, the Yankees cut the telegraph wire, and we are thus unable to get positive information concerning the state of affairs at Beaver Dam station. It is believed, however, that the depot was destroyed by the Yankees, who retreated towards that point on the approach of the train, and a dense volume of smoke was soon afterwards seen in the same direction.

THE ARMIES BELOW RICHMOND. The utmost quiet continues on the lines in the vicinity of Richmond, and there is no probability that the first anniversary of the battle of Manassas will be celebrated by another attempt of the Great Army to capture the "rebel Capital." The exchange of prisoners is progressing as rapidly as circumstances will allow, a large number of the Yankees sick and wounded having been sent to City Point on Saturday, and others will be sent off by different routes.

A numerous fleet of Federal war vessels, gunboats and transports lays between Berkeley and Westover, and McClellan has probably been already reinforced by a large portion of Burnside's command. A soldier arrived in Richmond on Saturday evening with a finger shot off, and reported that he had been wounded by a Yankee picket stationed across the Pamunkey river, while he was near the White House, on this side.

According to his account, the enemy's pickets extend through the lower end of King William county to the river, but we have good reason for doubting it altogether. A gentleman who reached here two days ago from West Point reports everything quiet in that neighborhood. There are few if any Federal soldiers about there, and but one gunboat has been seen since the great battles, when the whole fleet put down the York in great haste and confusion.

Matters have been perfectly quiet in King and Queen since the affair at Walkertown, and the inhabitants generally believe that the Yankees are so busily employed in their preparations elsewhere that they have not leisure to pay their respects to their late enter-tainers.

DISBANDED. The First Regiment Virginia Volunteers has, it is stated, been disbanded. It has been one of the best and most useful in the army.

When disbanded it had hardly over fifty men.

LATER FROM THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

Death of Major Fairbanks of the Fifth Michigan Regiment.

FALSE RUMORS.

THE POSTAGE STAMP CURRENCY.

Unconditional Discharge of Union Surgeons and Chaplains by the Rebels.

Safe Arrival of Treasury Notes in California.

WASHINGTON, July 25.

*Among the released Union prisoners that arrived here to-day is Lieutenant Hartshorne, of the Bucktail regiment. He is on his parole and is in good health.

The steamer Froeborn arrived at the navy-yard last night, bringing the prize schooner Sabine, which was captured recently in the Rappahannock.

The citizens along the Rappahannock and Potomac are represented to be in great contentment, especially those who recently deserted from the rebel cause and took the oath of allegiance to this Government.

Mourning parties of rebel cavalry are said to be making their appearance, at times, in the vicinity, and impressing citizens into the service of the rebel Government. The alarm is so great that a large number of men sleep nightly in boats out in the stream to prevent surprise and capture.

FROM GEN. POPE'S ARMY

GENERAL ORDER NO. 13.

Guarding of Rebel Property Prohibited.

The Soldiers to Battle Against the Rebels, not to Protect their Property,

GENERAL ORDER NO. 13.

HEAD QUARTERS, ARMY OF VIRGINIA, Washington, July 25.

Hereafter no guards will be placed over private houses or private property whatever. Commanding officers are responsible for the conduct of the troops under their command, and the articles of war and regulations of the army provide ample means for restraining them to the full extent required for discipline and efficiency. Soldiers were called into the field to battle against the enemy, and it is not expected that their force and energy shall be wasted in protecting private property of those most hostile to the Government. No soldier serving in this army shall be hereafter employed in such service.

By command of
[Signed] MAJ. GEN. POPE
Geo. D. Ruggles, Col., A. A. G. and Chief of Staff.

MILL DESTROYED.

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS.

Intercepted Rebel Letters, &c.

CAMP AT WATERLOO JUNCTION, FARQUHAR CO., VA., July 24.

Butlers are now precluded from receiving supplies by railroad, on account, it is said, of salt and other contraband goods having passed in large quantities through our lines to the enemy.

The mill in which a large supply of cloth for rebel uniforms was found some time since, near Warrenton, was destroyed by fire this week.

Sergeant Ray, of the one hundred and fourth New York Regiment, accidentally shot himself yesterday, through the thigh, and W. Chapman, of the one hundred and fifth New York, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen. Though severe, it is not thought that the wounds will prove fatal. Dennis Lawler and Lyman Gallop, of the same regiment, were thrown from a wagon and badly injured.

Our troops rejoice in the great improvement in their culinary arrangements consequent on the new order to forage on the enemy. They now enjoy the delicacies of the season. Some of them have large quantities of Confederate notes, cheaply obtained, with which they purchase any live stock the country affords.

Letters that have been intercepted possess some interest. A lady writing to a friend says, "The horrid Yankees have arrived. There is skirmishing every day about the Rapidan river."

Other correspondents express discontent and despondency at the state of affairs at Richmond and throughout the South, and wish they were at home again. Richmond is said by others to be an immense slaughter house, the stench from which is almost insufferable. Some of the letters contain pictures of Jeff. Davis and other prominent rebels. A number of them contain Confederate scrip, with directions to make purchases.

There are no military matters at present to communicate.

FROM MEMPHIS.

General Sherman in Command of the City.

Citizens Taking the Oath of Allegiance.

MEMPHIS, July 22.

Major General Sherman has assumed command of this city. He will enforce all orders issued by his predecessors.

Four hundred persons took the oath of allegiance yesterday, and a hundred and thirty received passes to go South. It may be expected that upon Gen. Sherman's arrival, the order requiring them to take the oath or leave, would be modified, and many have deferred the taking until to-day, consequently the provost marshal's office is thronged by applicants to solicit passes to go South, and those desiring to take the oath.

FROM HARPER'S FERRY

ARRIVAL OF GEN. WOOL.

GRAND MILITARY DISPLAY.

HARPER'S FERRY, VA., July 24.

On Tuesday at noon precisely a special train, under the immediate charge of William F. Smith, Esq., reached this place with General Wool and staff, who were received at the cars with due military honors by Col. Miles and the battalion of Maryland Home Brigade Cavalry. The deep mounded cannon on the Maryland Heights bellowed forth its boisterous welcome, and for miles around awoke the slumbering echoes of the mountain gorges. The substantial breakfast on Camp Hill, erected under the superintendence of that experienced veteran soldier, Col. D. S. Miles, were first visited, and after being minutely inspected received the approval of the distinguished visitor and suit. The several camps were next examined and were found to be in a high state of cleanliness and order.

All the infantry regiments and cavalry battalions then marched to the parade ground on Bolivar Heights, where they were reviewed in line and in column by General Wool, who immediately on the dismissal of the parade commanded the issuing of the following general order.

HEADQUARTERS HARPER'S FERRY, VA., July 23, 1862.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 84.

At the request of Major General Wool, commanding the Department, it is published to the officers and soldiers of the command his great gratification and admiration of your soldierly appearance, proficiency in drill and discipline, on the review of yesterday, and that shortly he means to return and witness your drill in the evolution of the line. By order of COL. MILES, Commanding Post.

General Wool proceeded the same afternoon as far as Cumberland, the western limit of his Department.
