PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FEM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860.—Kiles S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumanism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till hast fatur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, fait cold, hot had no dedded chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the gan so swell, which was followed by swelling of the gan so swell, which was followed by swelling of the pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is new fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention, to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I much propylamises. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great uenealt from its use in 260 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always morodalous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 22, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatum. She has steadily taken it in does of three grain every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has attackly progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Thur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of ... same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from c hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her horionic effection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and teuse. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER !!

THREE DAYS LATER!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of soute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory ressus. The second c. se to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to de wel. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdetc in favor of propylamin

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had coassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep hit bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knes, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremitles. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, thougu there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of scute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is tollowed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There us fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a locture on all the politic connected with rhoumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are tosting, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co uld not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUMP 9, 1860.—The next of our convalencents is the case of acuter-heumatism before you at our clinic of May 20th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our sew remedy. It was herefore steadily given in three grain doese every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very niedly, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o rropylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medcal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished dectors and rejoicing petionts.
