Yesterday was a gala day for the citizens of his ancient borough and its vicinity. The peo ple were assembled for the purpose of bidding the noble young men of old Derry township an old fashioned farewell.

SCENE IN THE TOWN.

The side walks and streets of the borough were nowded with foot passengers and vehicles of all kinds from the surrounding country. The oldest settlers were on hand with their wives and children to witness the departure of their sturdy relatives and neighbors, and at the same time relating their own experience during the revolution and the war of 1812, urging the men of the present age to do likewise.

THE PARADE.

Capt. Henderson soon formed his men into line and paraded up and down the Main street, and we must here make the candid remark that finer body of men were never mustered into the service of the United States. They halted of Liout Sullivan, who, after being shot from about the middle of the borough, where the roll his horse, discharged his revolver at the enemy about the middle of the borough, where the roll was called, and some one hundred and twen ty answered to their names, who were sworn into the service of the United States by H. LAYING A CORNER STONE.—The corner stone of the Wesleyan Union church, (colored,) on the corner of South street and Tanners alley, will be laid with appropriate cerimonies on next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. The public first apprised of the approach of the enemy by the firing of our pickets at 5 o'clock on the morning of the 8th. In less than five minutes from the first alarm the men.were mounted and in line. Our line was formed on the top of a hill in open ground, surrounded on three sides by dense woods. The enemy dismounted that further resistance against such odds was worse than useless, we were ordered to fall back to Burkesville, 28 miles distant, via Mac-Millin's Ferry, ten miles from Camp, hoping to be able to make a stand at the river. This road we found occupied by the enemy in large force, and at this point, Major Jordan was taken prisoner. The retreat was then continued by the old Burkesville road. Col. Owen having left Burkesville, we followed after and overtook him about 7 miles northeast of Albany. Our los is four killed, fifteen wounded and twenty missing-who are northed.
