PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

From Opposite Hospital Reputers.]

r May 19, 1860,—Elles S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, white engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so dedded chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the tuee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and palnful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical ease. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is, to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylometrie. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimoniats respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which her vanded as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

he result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervoning upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain does every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 28, 1880.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very combritable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welt! I will now bring before you avery characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verticit in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, st. 28, who was admitted a few days see. Has had ocassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all awollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his kin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of soute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a faciling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving your a become on all the points connected with rheumatism. But to again give a trial to the new reinfus and to axhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on the lower foints. There is fever and the profuse a twinty has a fairer opportunity for testing the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misativing as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future offine.

THE RESULT.

June 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acuterheumatism before you at our clinic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doese every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health state earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, sued. I wish gentlement you would yourselve and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med ion authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from autorished doctors

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of soute renumatism. She has steedily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you as wher, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steedily progressed, and you cannot if to notice a marked change in the appearance of her ints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Ing far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while becore we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be he result.

A FAVORABLE VERDIOT.
