PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL FROM OFFICIAL HORPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REFORMS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REFORMS.]

[MAY 19, 1860.—Ellea S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rhoumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequately from a relapse fer four-more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while ongaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so decided chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of soute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashlonably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the warrous symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remarky which has recently been recommended in the treatments of rheumatism. I mean propagative. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest leftms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always increduless as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifie; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a risk.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of soute rheumatum. She has seasily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at laght.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot all to notice a marked change in the appearance of her linis, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—higher our experiment would have seemed very successful; but gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the result.

Here is mother patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; the has long been suffering from a hronic rheomatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack superrening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swellen and tense. She took the chierde of Propylamine in three grain done overytwo hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 20, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last cluid. She is still very confortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very leating they results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdet: in favor of propylamin

He is a seaman, set. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had coassional rheumatic pause, but not so as co keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the foints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much swenting. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lever and the profuse swesting, so generally attiendant on acute 'rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before your with the intention of giving you a locture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to extinit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no ministrings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

ij June 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic or May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the wight of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily type, in three grain does every two hours for four days. The patiens has got along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hedicate to say that I nege adves seen as evere a case of soute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chlorideto, Propylanthe, the patients have regained their health Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves tay it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reperter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med cel anthority in this country, and makes it unnecessary and reloicing patients.
