[FROM OFFICIAL REFORM.]

[MAY 19, 1880.—Ellen S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rhoumatism, from which she was confined to her bod for swo weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Saturday, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and paintul; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various ay mptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. In can propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have supered in our journals, and I propose therefore be givel another wind. I must confess I am always moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vannied as specifies; but this comes to us recommended & highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1880.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of soute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The more overment has ateadily progressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her bits, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—our far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while better exist.

he result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of he same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronic rheumalism, and i found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chrodic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swellen and tense. She took the chloride of Propyismine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the first of those to which I called your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The socond case to winch your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days 40. Has has ocasional rheumatic pans, but not so as co keep his bod, until eight days 40. The pans began in his right kee, achsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. Those joints are all awollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred, this skin, at present dry though there has been much swesting. His pulse is find and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldbeas, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism.

I did not bring into patient colory you with the Intention of giving you a lecture on all the politic to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on uld not be a lairer opportunity for testing the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misglying as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future, clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDIOT.

Elume, 1880.—The next of our convalencents is the case of acuterbeumatism before you at our clude of May 26th, which! then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not heattate to say that I have nevel seen as severe a case of noute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to doubt possitivity as in the ranked we have used, I seel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o tropylamine, the patients have regained their health musch carlier than under the treatment erdinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condens extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med cal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary
