PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL REFORM.]

MAY 10, 1860.—Ellan S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rhoumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning; she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hat had so deeded chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, is the inew fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propulation. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Patersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great neach it from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various, commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER !

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATERS!

MAY 28, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steedly takens it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more construbile, better than she expected to be for a week or snore, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her bints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—ang far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we a decided uplinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suifering from a proping rheumatism, and i found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her shroute affection. The wrists and kauckies were much swollan and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swolling of the joints has much diminated.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory reskins. The second c. se to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do weir I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result by satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamine.

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocaasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bod, until eight days ago. The pains tiegen in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and inter, the joints of the upper extremites. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred, is lasting, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This genticman is what may be called a strictly typical case of scute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure. Is followed by a feeling of coddness; severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lover and the profuze sweating, so generally attiendant on acute rheumatism.

I did not bring this patient before you with the Intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are teeting, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in other modicines, even anodynes, that there may be not misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUBIC, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May. 20th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you ace. I do not hesitate to any that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used. I feel bound to statist in the same in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much carlier than under the treatment ordinarily purvued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med cal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished docto and rejoicing patients.
