4 VOICE FROM THE PAST-THE REBEL LION IN ITS TRUE LIGHT.

As the rebellion prolongs its struggles, developments are being made, setting forth its actual objects, and proving that instead of being an offort to achieve independance for the people, is not capable of self-government—that there is the world stand still while the solution of the a distinction of class which no condition of so- problem is being evolved. clety or position in politics can equalise; and With these old partisan issues let the old are also ready to proclaim the enslavement of achieved. all labor a similarly pressing and equally esextract in question:

But ernment. This is the plain and substantial issue. In war, when traitors seek to destroy liberty, It is a fight between the advocates of freedom life, law, and all that is dear to man, the and the maintainers of slavery: whether the bloody challenge is thrown out to the loyal American Union shall continue to exist—wheth-citizen, and the nation has a right to demand ar the domain which that Union embraces the service of all its people. THE PARTY OF THE FUTURE.

The Iron Platform, a sterling and eloquent from all the loyal men of the land, a party that will hereafter ensure the purity and the safety of the government. The same idea actuates the loyal men of Pennsylvania, because we are in the midst of a national struggle that is to lay again the foundation principles of the republic. The permanence of popular liberty, the grandeur of free institutions, and the glory of the great truths upon which the government was established, are at stake. Through the upheaval of a Titanic rebellion, through the tribulations and woes of a deadly strife, the Union must come out with its banner brighter and purer, its stars increased in number and in splendor, and its history and its destiny vindicated. In the preparation for this work old parties have for some years past been going through rapid and important changes and transformations. They were all of them temporary and temporizing expedients which could have no other result but failure. When at last the battle of the opposing forces became imminent, the Democratic party was destroyed by some of its most favored leaders, and its downfall was made by them the opportunity for revolution Parties are only organizations for the embodiment of some special measure or principle adapted to the needs of the time. Hence par ties change with the progress of events, and new arrangements are formed, and the partisan of to day may find himself in a new circle and under new associations and affiliations tomorrow. But underlying all these temporary issues of policy or of expediency, there are certain fundamental principles which constitute the character and genins of our free institutions. The structure of the government, its crowning glory of equality and union among the states, its in dissolubility, its liberal constitution, its vital truths, and its progressive expansiveness—these are permanent, and when lost, all is gone that makes us a free and self-governing people. These fundamental principles are now at issue in this struggle. We do not now discuss the question whether slavery shall go into a territory or shall be excluded—nor whether the system is right or wrong-nor whether the government may collect revenues or land taxes, or build a lighthouse on an inland sea. These and other questions of legislation have passed by. ## THE REBELS IN A TIGHT PLACE. IMPENDING GREAT BATTLE

NEW YORK PRESS AGENCY, Aug. 29. We have reliable advices, tErough letters re ceived to-night, that affairs at Washington and Alexandria have worn a more favorable as pect. The secessionists of the latter city are ess jubilant, and carry desponding counte-

Generals Burnside and Pope have successfully cut their way through the rebel forces to Ma-nassas, and have formed a junction with the Army of Virginia, under General McClellan, this side of Centreville.

There has been a severe engagement with the ebels by the division under the command of Generals Hocker, Sturges and Sumner, in which the rebels were completely routed and driven back from the vicinity of Manassas and Bull Run through the passes of the Bull Run mountains.

The loss of life on both sides is said to have been heavy. No accurate information is obtainable on this point, but it is believed the enemy were very severely punished, and many prison ers taken.

It is also stated that the Potomac river is now fordable at any point above Washington, and much excitement prevails throughout Western Maryland, arking from the fear that a portion of the rebel army may make a desperate and destructive raid in that quarter, but the arrangements for a proper reception of the trai-tors at all points are ample for all emergencies of such a nature.

The enemy has not yet appeared on the Upper Potomac, although indications have pointed to such an event, and the excitement on both sides of the line continues.

The fears for the safety of Washington are entirely dispelled, as the defences of the capital are perfect and impregnable.

The general feeling of the loyal people of both Alexandria and Washington is once more confidence, and the depression which has pre-vailed among loyal men for the past week has given way to that of joy and gladness.

That there have been the most extensive movements of troops from Alexandria and other points is beyond a doubt, and it is currently believed that the major portion of our army has had either skirmishing or hard fought battles with the enemy within the last twenty our hours. It is generally believed an extensive forward movement was made by the whole army to-day, under Gen. McClellan, involving a battle; but the result, if a battle was fought, has not yet been announced.

Our advices are up to noon to day, and are from the most trustworthy sources. LATEST FROM THE ARMY.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30. Occasional of the Press says that while Sige and McDowell are harassing Jackson on flank, Banks is in his rear, and a larger army than all under command of McClellan dispute his march.
