PROW OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS. MAY 19, 1880,—Ellen S., set. 28, single, never was worns. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheurs, from which she was confined to her hed for two we strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute riscumstims, jroin which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then; till last Saturday, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so deeded chill. Two days later her, andles began to swell, which was followed by swelling of the time joints and of the hands. She has now dult pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right timest so. This; then, is a case of acute rheumatim, or, as it is now fanhionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the viras well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to they case symptoms which present themselves. My chief object is bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr.
Awenarius, of. St. Petersburg, recommended it in the highest terms, having derivergreest enselt from its use in 250 cases which came tangerhis, care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies?

Section of the propose therefore to give it another trial the propose the recommended so highly that. orth of new remedies, which are vaunted as special this comes to us recommended so highly, that and to give it a true!.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I MAY 23, 1866.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for rhom I prescribed Propylamind, shd was then labor-ng under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has usedily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I bund her much more comfortable, better than she exfound her much more comfortable, better than sie expected to be for a week or more, justing from her other states. "The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cahnot; it is noting a warked change in the appearance of her fail for our experiment would have seemed very sucserful; but, gentlemen, we must watta little while betare we can give a decided-opinion as to what is to be the result.

the result another patient who was placed on the use of lare is another patient who was placed on the use of lare same medicine on Sunday last; fishe has long been suffering from a bronic rheamatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chroate affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swellen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain does every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminited.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism eated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory reastles. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well? I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had coansional rheumatic pams, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently silected the left knee, and laker, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—

He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain; leginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intension of string you a lecture on all the points connected with fleamantsm, but to again give a trial to the law resided year of testing and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co und many tights as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUNEY, 1860.—The next of our convalencents is the case of acute rhousastam before you at our clinic of May 18th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The pattent has got along very incely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rhousatism so seen restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the validate of the remedy we have used. I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily purued. I wish gautemen, your would yourselves try it, and roport the results.

For a full report of which the above is a conden extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best medcal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary erous certificates from astonished doptor
