Every day brings us nearer the time when the period approaches men begin to look with would be passed, and the contest confined by the a more scrutinizing eye, each upon the chances actual belligerents engaged. In proof of this let the following furnished our full quota for both calls, and the rebel Brigadier General Ruggles, testily. therefore the draft for this county is as iminent The order in which the item alluded to occurs as in any other throughout the Commonwealth. was issued in Tangipahoah, La., on the 12th The figures will not foot up a sufficient total.-The presence of stalwart men, and many who have heretofore boasted of their military qual ifications by their display of brass buttons and highly colored feathers on general training day, show that there is not only necessity, but material for the draft.

be drafted, and who will escape?" The large er we are contending with men or brutes? ·number of those claiming exemption is lessening the chances of escape among the healthy natives, and those who have before grumbled because they had not the privileges of the elective franchise, now glorify themselves that they "never voted a ticket." Delicate citizens ponder over the possibility of their being forced into heavy marches over dusty roads, in the hot sun, and shudder at a midnight couch on the bare ground and beneath a drenching rain. and amputated legs and arms.

Oh, the draft, the draft! The rich will buy a substitute, and stay at home to superintend their business, while the poor man, with but little in worldly goods to lose, will turn comfort of the wife and little ones he has left behind him. Yet the draft must come. The the rebellion must be put down.

THE DOUGH-FACES OF BERKS COUNTY have renominated Ancons for Congress. Of course this will not surprise any one who understands the elements invoked to produce this result, and it is calculated only to encourage the leaders of the rebellion with the assurance that the Democracy of Berks county are loyal in their sympathy for treason as they are persistent in their efforts to embarrass the government in its movements to crush that rebellion. Ancona is a malignant, overestimated partizan, who has proven himself utterly unfit to represent any district in Congress, and we earnestly hope that there are loyal men in sufficient num bers left in Berks county to rebuke and defeat him at the approaching election.

Hon. J. K. Morehead has been renominated as the candidate for Congress in the Twentysecond District, by the loyal men in that portion of the Commonweaith. This proof of the popularity of a falthful public servant, is alike popularity of a faithful public servant, is alike complimentary to himself, personally, and an evidence, too, of the high political repute in the state of servitude will be impossible in the sufferings. During the time he has been in Congress, few of the Abolitioniets. men have been more successful than Col. Morehead, and no representative from this common. wealth has more faithfully served his constituents. His re-election is, of course, a fixed fact.

THE REPUBLICANS OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY have placed in the field the following popular nomi. elected in October:

In view of this claim, when these conspirators threw off the mask in Congress and boldly declared their purpose to discolve this Union, the people of the free and always loyal states, were reminded that to attempt the coersion of these gentlemen would be certain ruin. They were too honorable, too NOBLE, too CHIV-ALRIC to submit to such measures. Governed by such feelings, James Buchanan suffered the threats of disunion to become practical efforts tending to that object, and when coercion became a necessity of self preservation, the nation suddenly discovered that these honorable, noble and chivalric gentlemen had not only insisted on a doubtful right, but while the Government was discussing the justice of disit wherever there was any property they could seize. Still, this is not the part to which we desired to attract the attention of the reader, when we inquired whether we were contending with men or brutes. Notwithstanding, we were always aware that the slave-holding conspirators have been guilty of many enormities towards their property, we were still inclined to treat them as men; as men who feel that however desperate and unjust the cause in which they were engaged, it was not necessary to resort to any brutal means against the slaves of the south, in order to decide this contest one way Wednesday Afternoon, September 3, 1862. or the other. We were the more inclined to this notion because the government has given the conspirators every assurance, both in words and deeds, that the slaves would not be used the operations of the draft shall begin, and as an element to crush rebellion; but that they been mistaken. RIGHTS GAINED AND LOST.

The Cincinnati Daily Times says that the rebels instituted this rebellion to obtain their "rights." They were not content with the equality of the states under the Constitution, and claimed the "right" to sever the Union, and establish a government of their own. Let us see what rights they gained and lost. Before the rebellion they were prosperous. In all They turn pale at the idea of daily fare on salt pork, hard bread, and coffee strong as brine, and paler still at the prospect of bullet wounds and emputered in the prospect of bullet wounds are prospect of bullet wounds and emputered in the prospect of bullet wounds are prospect of bullet wounds. found in the world: with natural resources which commanded a universal commerce with generous, confiding and faithful friends in the north and west, they were enjoying political with sohing heart to think of the welfare and and personal advantages unrivalled in the Free and independent, prosperous and happy, bonor and glory of the old flag require it, and rapidly growing in wealth, and their favorite domestic institution protected by a great and powerful government, their position was un rivalled before the world.

They have been eighteen months searching for the fancied lost rights. What is the result? Commerce destroyed, ports blockaded, rivers the same, internal as well as foreign trade completely ruined, all branches of industry destroyed, the whole section impoverished, nearly every family bereaved, and from every section of their territory comes up the wail of distress.

They have no implements of husbandry, no clothes, no hats, no shoes, no paper, pens or ink, no furniture for their houses, no machinery, nothing of the necessities of life for which they gave the easy product of their slave labor. And worse than that, they have struck the death blow to the institution, for the advance of which they have involved this great country in civil war. All reasonable minds must admit that slavery can no longer be deemed permanent in any portion of the United States. The rebels have armed the negro with a knowledge

It is now apparent that the south, as a section, is completely ruined. It will require a new race of people, a new order of society, new institutions, to restore it to its former society. The traitors are coushing themselves out, by crushing the entire section which they represent.
