PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSTITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 10, 1860,—Ellea S., set. 28, single, never was very tirong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her hed for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Saturday, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so decided chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and trom time to time call your attention to this varicus symptoms which present themselves. My ohler object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another rial. I must confess I am always moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I presorthed Propylamine, and wa sthem laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her bints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—nue far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

iore we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of .1s same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from c bronio rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminipated.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 28, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory resails. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring nefore you a very characteristic case of scate rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has has ocassional rheumatic pans, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days 320. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swolles, tense and tender. His tongue is furred, in his right knes, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is find and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. Here was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular psin, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is lever and the profuse awasting, so generally attlendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than whom there to uid not be a lairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUNE 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acuter beumatism before you at our citoic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth ol our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of Propylamba the cultants have regained that the best of the second of Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

for a full report of which the above is a condense extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Survical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the best med cal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from autonished doctors and rejoicing patients.
