PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860.—Elles S., st. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last fatur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, but had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. In man propylamine. Br Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, kwing derived great venefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER ! [FROM OPPICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER in MAY 23, 1850.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (internsiting it at night.) The day after you saw her, i found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her lints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—Interface our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while better we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

in the results are a technical opinion as to what is to be the results.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of 1.2 same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a broken that time with an acute attack supervening upon her obroate affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tease. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain does every two hours, and you will parceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 28, 1880.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case is has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second c.es to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welr: I will now brime before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be sat factory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our wordict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, et. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocasional rheumatic pams, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began mins right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; this skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wel, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as, it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the produce sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there on ule other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no ellegiving as to which was the efficient remedy. You whall see the case of a future clinic.
