PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL

[From Corneal Hospital Reports.]

May 19, 1860,—Elles S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was comined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house clearing, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had so decided chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the times joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of soute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumath fewer. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My ohief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. It mean propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommende it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always meredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER! SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of soute rhoumatigm. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at hight.) The day after you saw her, I lound her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the recome.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her inits, which are now nearly all of their natural size.—nur far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, genitemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be he result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the new of he result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of Las same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been authoring from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swellan and teage. She took the chipride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER !!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well! I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamine.

He is a seaman, sat. 26, who was admitted a few days see keep his bed, until eight days sgo. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tame and tender. His tongue is furred; his skin, at present, dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 20.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse swesting, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a tecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co uld not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, and the profuse of all other medicines, oven anodynes, that there may be no misgiving as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a fiture clinic.
