PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL

[FROM OFFIGIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860.—Eiles S., set. 23, single, never was very crong. Two years ago she had an attack of anuts rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house vicaning, she took cold, had pain in her book, felt cold, hot had so decided chill. Two days later for ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the tree joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of scute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashlonably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention: to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im can propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great beaself from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always noredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER 1 SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER I MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and wa steen laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. Sine has steedily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, i could her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or move, judging from her other stuck. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily pregressed, and you cannot il to notice a marked change in the appearance of her intig which are new nearly all of their natural size.—
ner far our experiment would have seemed very sucesful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while beber excell.

he result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of a same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her ohronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminited.

THREE DAYS LATER !!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine; the first of those to which I alied your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very estimated by results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satisfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set. 25, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had occasional rheomatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These loints are all swollen, tense and tender: His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 30.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of active rheumathem. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring thing points consected with rheumatism, but 10 again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called is, than which there co uld not be a fairer opportunity for testing the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no uligiving as to which was the efficient remedy. You thall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

Jump 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 36th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very nicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hectize to say that I have heven seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism alo seon restored to health as this man has been and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to stafe that in the cases in which we have tried the Chioride of Propylamine, the patients hive regained their health much are riler than under the treatment erdinarily puraul. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.
