[FROY OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860.—Ellen S., st. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till tast fatur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankles began, so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully washe the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. By chief object to bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propidamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, hiswing derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vanued as specifie; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER 1

THREE DAYS LATER (4 for i)

THREE DAYS LATER!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last colline. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking; three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seeined to be followed by very cattactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well! I without him before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our worden to be satfactory. I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our worden to consider the form of propylamine. He is a scammu, sat. 28, who, was admitted a few days to keep his bed, mill argure may argo. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the lockanee, and inter; the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swellen, tense and tender. His tongue as furred; his skin, at present dry, though the twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and week, and this argueure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it passally does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweeting, so generally, attendant on acute rheumatism. I did het bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a locture on all the points consected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remody we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for nexting the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no magning as to which was the efficient remedy. You but this comes to us recommendate bound to give it a trial. MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whem I prescribed Evolylamine, and wa a then laborang mider an attack of acute the minimum. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, i lound her much more countortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging frem her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily pregressed, and you cannot ill to notice a marked change in the appearance of her intus, which are new nearly all of their natural size,—nue far our experiment, would have seemed very secesful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we agent and accided opinion as to what is to be he results. ire we'can give a decided opinion as to what is to be no results.

Here is snother patient who was placed on the use of le same inediction on Sunday list; she has long been suffering from a broate rhemastism, and I found her at that time with an soute stack supervening upon her thingely affection. The wrists and knockles were much swollen and tease. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.
