PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

MAY 19, 1860,—Eilen S., set. 28, single, never was very trong. Two years ago she had an attack of acuts rheumansm, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till lest Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold not had so deelded chilt. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dult rain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right smost so. This, then, is a case of souter heumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to size with carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylomstate. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the nighest terms, having derived great cenetit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimorials respecting it have appeared in our tourness and it propose therefore to draw our services. [FROM OFFICIAL HOMPTEAL REPORTS.] meadatory testimunials respecting it have appeared our journals, and I propose therefore to give it anoth trial. I must confess I am always moredulous as to t worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at hight.) The day after you saw her, I cound her much more consortable, better than she expected to be for a wock or more, judging from her ottack. If The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ill to hother a marked change in the appearance of her limis, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—nue far our experiment would have seemed very sucassful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be her result.

the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of its same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her shronic sfeetion. The wrists and knuckles were much swellen and tease. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER !!

THREE DAYS LATER 1 MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rhoumatism enter with propylamine, the first of those to which I alted your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very estisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very cnaracter, is the case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be sat factory, it think, as good jurymen, we snall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a scaman, set 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had consolonal rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right kines, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swolled; tense and tender. His tongue is furred; injusting, as present dry, though there has been much sweaking. His pulse is full and streng, and about 20.—

If has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a faciling of coldiness; savere articular pain, beginning, as it unally does, in the jower joints. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a faciling of coldiness; savere articular pain, beginning, as it unally does, in the jower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attiendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before yea with the intention of giving you a jecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to this new remay we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co uld not be a faire opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the medicine of all there medicines of a future clinic.

THE RESULT. A FAVORABLE VERDIOT.

JUNES, 1800.—This mark of our convalencents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 28th, which I there called a typical case, and which it was remarked was, a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our few remedy. It was therefore, steadily given in three grain doese every two heurs for four days. The patient has get along very mostly, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that have neves seen as severe a case of abute rheumatism, so soon restored to health as this man has, been, and without being prepared to decide positive by all to the value of the remedy we have used. I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride o Propylamise, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment erdinarily pursued. I wish gentlemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.
