Hare is another patient who was placed on the use of 20 same medicine on Sunday last; the has long been suffering from a broute rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chroate affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and teose. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of soute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alied your attention at our hast offnic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very estigated by the seemed to be followed by very estigated by the seemed to be followed by very estigated by the seemed to be followed by very estigated by the seemed to be followed by very estigated by the seemed to be succeeded by the seemed to do well? I will slow bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be sat factory, I think, as good jurymen, we small justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set 26, who was admitted a few days 1800. Has had coassional rheumatic pams, but not so as 20 keep his bed, untit eight Lays 200. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and isser the loints of the upper streamites. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender: His tongue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His paise is fail and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical cand wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usualty does, in this lower joints. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usualty does, in this lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally stitesdant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring thing you s lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new renedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in one of the case of a finare clinic.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

adais ka sul 👵 🕍 🙃 June 9, 1860, The mart of our convalencement is June 1860.—The maxt of our convalencements is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic of May 38th, which it then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has got along very alcely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neven seen as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the easter in which we have tred the Chloride o Propylamine, the patients have regained their health much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily pursued. I wish gestiemen, you would yourselves try it, and report the results.

MAY 19, 1860,—Elles S., et. 28, single, never was very trong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, not had no decided chill... Two days later bor ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the time joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of soute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylessine. Dr. Awenariss, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great cenefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory settimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I meat confless I am always moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifics; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. May 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whem I prescribed Propylamine, and was then indooring under an attack of acute rheumansm. She has steadily taken it in does of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other track. (The patient now walked into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot all to notice a marked change in the appearance of her ints, which are new nearly all of their natural size.—nor far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while bette each of the results.
