PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[From Ownight Hospital Reports.]

May 19, 1860.—Eilen S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, ahe took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold, bot had so dedded chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of scute rheumatism, or, as it is new fashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My ohier object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylawine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vanued as specifics; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are, bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient ier whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatum. She has steadily taken it in doese of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I cound her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from ker other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot ull to notice a marked change in the appearance of her lints, which are new nearly all of their natural size,—hur far ofter experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of the same edicine on Stunday last; she has long been auffering from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic effection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the calcride of Propytamine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminitized.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism eated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last olinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to different with the second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to different with the second part of the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has has occasional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremities. These joints are all swollen, tames and tender. His tougue is furred; his skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldarse, severa articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no misgiving as to which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.
