MAY 19, 1860,—Ellen S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rhoumantsm, from which she was confined to her hed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse few four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her book, feit cold, hot had so dedded chill. Two days later her ankles began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rhaumatism, or, as tit snow fashlomably called, rheumatic fewer. It is well remarked typical case We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your steadow to the various symptoms which present themselves. My other object to bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr. A wenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, lawing derived great tonedit from its up an 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory teatimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always increditions as specific but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS. but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatum. She has steadily taken it in dose of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot all to notice a marked change in the appearance of her lints, which are new nearly all of their natural size,—nue far our experiment would have seemed very sumselved in the superance of her lints, which are new nearly all of their natural size,—nue far our experiment would have seemed very sumselved in the superance of her seems.

Bere is another patient who was placed on the use of the result. Bere is another patient who was placed un the use of the same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suitering from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attact supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckies were much awollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propylamine in three grain doese every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminifuled.

THREE DAYS LATER !!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism eated with propylamine, the first of those to which i alied your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains three daily In this case it has seemed to be followed by very sat infactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last fecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of scute rheumatism, and if the result be sat factory, I think, as good jurymen, we small justly render our vertict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, sat. 26, who was admitted a few days go. Has had coassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knes, subsequently allected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremitios. These juints are all swellar, the joints of the upper extremitios. These juints are all swellar, the subsequently allected the left knee, and later, the joints of the upper extremitios. These juints are all swellar, its pulse is full and strong, and about 50.—

This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a faciling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There us fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on scute rheumatism. I did not bring this patient before you with the intention of tiping you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new femmed we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co uit not be a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be not other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be not set of the medicines of a thure clinic.
