THE STATE OF THINGS IN KENTUCKY is really deplorable. The Louisville Journal gives tions of the state now in possession of the rebel else they need, and driving off horses, cattle paper promises of the Confederacy. But what is worse, the Journal ays, they are enforcing the conscription, and pressing men without regard to their sentiments, into the rebel service, erished, and yet she lies as passively under the infliction as if there were no men in it.

An Anxious Inquires desires to know what position William H. Miller has heretofore held, that some of his mouth pieces should claim for him such superior ability and qualifications to represent this district in Congress. It is not in our power to answer. He is now in possession our power to answer. He is now in possession and the Constitutionality of military power this morning, five miles distant, on the Bards and three places of profit—one Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Solicitor the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Solicitor to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Solicit the Supreme Court of Pennsylvasia, Solicitor of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and the other Solicitor of the city of Harrisburg. He also acted as Clerk of the State Senate, at the same time receiving his fees as Prothonotary. He has not resigned either the Prothonotary or Solicitorship, and if (we only write if, with the firm faith that the district will be saved the calamity) he should be elected to Congress, he will of course hold on to all four positions, keeping, at the same time, a sharp look out in other easy emoluments.

IS HE LOYAL?

Every freeman should put this question, be fore he casts his vote at the next election—out it to some one in whom he has confidence, and who will truly answer him, so far as the interrogation concerns the candidates who are now before the people. Is such and such a candidate supporting the government? or, Is he playing the petty demagogue, and plotting for uccess, that he may be enabled to effect a disgraceful compromise with traitors? Let us look at the position of parties in our own immediate neighborhood; and apply the commonwealth how the winderest and to be performed; scruting of reason to decide upon the claims of each candidate to loyal consideration and manly support:

He was among those patriotic men brink of ruin? Voters, you must answer these from our state, who took a pride in giving aid questions. As you decide, depends the honor and comfort to the thousands of Pennsylvanians of old Pennsylvania—and as Pennsylvania goes who were and still are in arms for the Union. at the approaching election, so goes the Union. On all other questions, Mr. Bailey voted as a loyal Democrat. This action excited the spleen us, as we discuss the merits of each candidate, and the antagonism of the Breckenridge-torytraitors of York county. After discovering that the people of Cumberland and Perry counties had resolved to re-nominate and return Mr. Bailey to Congress, the political gamesters of York county, prompted by one of their own number, concocted a base plan by which they calculated they could prevent this re-nomina tlon. Against all precedent, in violation of all principle and to the utter disregard of all honor, the Breckenridgers of York announced that they had a right to six, instead of three, conferees, the usual and just number. Invested with this power, the tricksters of York county gloomy picture of the condition of those por hoped at least to equal the loyal freemen of both Cumberland and Perry, and from this equalforces. They are foraging on an immense scale, ity they had resolved to browbeat the masses carrying away grain and flour, and everything of the district, until they could secure the nomination of their favorite and promptor, Adam and hogs, leaving in their place the worthless J. Glossbrenner. Notoriously in the minority with a large portion of the masses of the party in that county in favor of Mr. Bailey, the Breckenridgers of York had yet sworn that he should be sacrificed, because he had acted with but more especially men known to be loyal to a loyal majority in Congress, and assisted the Union. The State is being rapidly impove thus in defeating the plans of the traitors to get possession of the national capital. WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 The following is the address of the Governors of the loyal States to the President, adopted at the meeting held at Altoona, Pa., to take measures for the more active support of the Gov-enment, on the 22d day of September, 1862.

After nearly one year and a half spent in the consequences are involved in our fidelity. Nevertheless, this work of restoring the Republic, preserving the institutions of Democratic origin,

States, their responsible and constitutional head, whose rightful authority and power, as well as the constitutional powers of Congress, must be vigorously and religiously guarded and preserved, as the condition on which all of ou form of government and the constitutional rights and liberties of the people themselves can be saved from the wreck of anarchy, or from the rule of despotism. In submission to the laws which may have been or which may be duly enacted, and to the lawful orders of the President, co-operating always in our own spheres in the National Goverument, we mean to con inue in the most vigorous exercise of all our lawful and proper powers, contending against treason, Rebellion, and the public enemies, and whether in public life or private station, supporting the arms of the Union until its cause shall conquer; until final victory shall perch upon our standard, or the Rebel foe shall yield a dutiful, rightful and unconditional submission; and impressed in the conviction that an army of reserves ought, until the war shall end, to be constantly kept on foot, to be raised, armed, equipped and trained at home, and ready for emergencies, we respectfully ask the President to call for such a force of volunteers for one year's service, of not less than one hundred thousand in the aggregate, the quota of each State to be raised ARRIVAL OF THE MONITOR sitions already made; both for volunteers and

The iron clad steamer Monitor from Norfolk has arrived here, where she will remain for a day or two. The President has recognized Amedee Sawven as Vice Consul of France at Reltimore.

Washington, Oct. 5.

Indicate the military education of the programmed hope the proclamation of the President, issued on the 22d instant, declaring emancipated from their bondage all persons held to service or labor as slaves in the rebel States whose rebellion chall last until the first day of January next ensuing.

The right of any persons to retain authority to compel any portion of the subjects of the National Government to rebel against it, or to maintain its enemies, implies in those who are allowed possession of such authority the right to rebel themselves, and, therefore, the right to establish martial law or military govern-ment in a State or Territory in rebellion, implies the right and the duty of the Government to liberate the minds of all men living therein, by appropriate proclamations and assurances of protection, in order that all who are capable, intellectually and morally, of loyalty and obedience, may not be forced into treason, the willing tools of rebellious traitors.

To have continued indefinitely the most efficient cause, support and stay of the rebellion, would have been, in our judgment, unjust to the loyal people whose treasure and lives are made a willing sacrifice on the altar of patriotism; would have discriminated against the wife who is compelled to surrender her husband; against the parent who is to surrender his child to the hardships of the camp and the perils of battle. If the rebel masters were permitted to retain their slaves it would have been a final decision against humanity, justice, the rights and dignity of the Government, and against a sound and wise national policy.
