This distressing Affection—which renders Life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excerses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may enue. DEAR SIR:-Every other sound at this moment, in Philadelphia, is overwhelmed by the clash of political conflict. The indications are that, by an immense majority, the cohorts of Milton, was captured by the expedition that had and the natriotism and the conflict. disunion will be routed and the patriotism and been sent up the river. The guns and aminuability of the government receive the recognition captured at the taking of the river bases tion that it merits, in the election of the entire National Union ticket, and the discomfiture and promenades are resplendent with beauty and lashion, but the essential—l'argen't—remains in its plea of concealment, and is expended even by the wealthy with sparing hands. The wheels of retail business are impeded still more by the entire absence of small money, those of wholesale business at present are stopped by the uncertainties of the price of goods. A pound of cotton now costs the former price of a pound of wool. A sheep was once an animal of moderate pretensions. His average fleece was worth to the farmer from eighty five cents to a dollar. To day the sheep is of some im-portance, and his fleece is of equal value with nis carcass. Cotton costs fifty cents a pound in bulk. It loses fifteen per cent. in preparation for manufacture, and fifteen per cent. more must be paid by the buyer for the gold that he gives for it. This is a pretty state of things, and instead of improving they are growing worse. What were once shilling calicoes now sell by wholesale at fifteen cents, and an ordinary piece of shirting muslin now brings twenty five to thirty cents per yard.

This is the eatitude of metropolitan life at this moment
