PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1862.—Slies S., St. 28, single, never was very rrong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatum, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequenty from a relapse fer four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, white engaged in bouse cleaning, she took cold, had pain in her back, felt cold hot had no decided chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, is it is now fashiomably called, rheumatic foror. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch thense, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. I mean propylamine. Dr Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great censult from its use. 250 cases which came under his care. Various coun mendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared to any increase. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.] and too cases when came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always incredulous as to noworth of new remodies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial.

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER:

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now arhibit to you the patient:

whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then taboring under an attack of soute rheumatism. She use steadily taken it in dose of three grains every two horrs(intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her i lound her much more comfortable, better that sate expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily pregressed, and you cannot uit to notice a marked change in the appearance of her ants, which are new meanly all of their natural size.—

nur far our exportment would have seemed very sucsesful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of ... as same medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a bronic rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon interest of the suffering from a flat of the wrists and knuckles were much swellen and teose. She took the chloride of Propylamiae in three grain doses every two hears, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much demignished.

THREE DAYS LATER!! MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rhounant incated with propylamine, the tirst of those to which is alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains three daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very entistatory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do well. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be suffactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly remove our verdict in favor of propylamin. He has seaman, st. 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had ocassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains tegan in his right knee, subsequently affected the iolik knee, are later, the joints of the upper extremities. If these joints are all switten that and tender. His Longous is farred his skin, at present dry, though there has been take the section.

nis skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90 -He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.
This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, segmining, as it usuaving does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse seventing, so generally attendent on acute rheamatism. I did not bring this patient cofore you with the latention of giving you a lecture en all the points connected with rheamatism, but to again give a trial to team new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there so did not be is fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in question. We are, therefore, avoiding the use of all other medicines, even anodynes, that there may be no magivings as to which was the efficient remedit. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT. A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

Jume 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our chuic of May 26th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing thworth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily, given in three grain doses every two hours for four days the patient has get along very nicely, and is now sule to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that if any news, some as severe a case of acute rheumatism. while about, as you see. I do not needingle to siy that i agve noves seem as severe a case of acute rhoumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the val-ue of the remody we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of ropy: amine, the patients have regained their much earlier than under the treatment erdinarily
