PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL. [FROM OFFIGIAL HOSPITAL REFORM.]

MAY 19, 1880,—Riles S., set. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack offacute rheumatum, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subsequently from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till last Satur day, while engaged in house steaming, she took cold, had pain in her back. [sit cold, bot had no dedded chill. Two days later her ankies began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee joints and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tender, red and painful; both hands are affected, but the right is most so. This, then, is a case of scute rheumatism, or, us it is now hashionably called, rheumatic fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im: an propylamine. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great benefit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial. I must confess I am always moredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vaunted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. (FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.)

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

NAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER!

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doese of three grains every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I cound her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other stack. (The patient now walked into the room.) The mprovement has steadily progressed, and you cannot il to notice a marked change in the appearance of her intis, which are now nearly all of their natural size—ner has our experiment would have seemed very auccessful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a little while better was can give a decided opinion as to what is to be her results.

Be result.

Here is another patient who was placed on the use of use manufacture on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a hronic rheumatism, and I found her at emering from o prome rheumatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and knuckles were much swollen and tense. She took the chloride of Propyla-mine in three grain doses every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much dimin-tined.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

MAY 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism cated with propylamine, the first of those to which I alled your attention at our last clinic. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welt! I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute rheumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamin.

He is a seaman, set 26, who was admitted a few days ago. Has had coassional rheumatic pains, but not so as to keep his bed, until eight days ago. The pains began in his right knee, subsequently affected the left knee, and inter, the joints of the upper extremittes. These joints are all swollen, tense and tender. His tongue is furred; his skip, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His pulse is full and strong, and about 90.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours. This gentleman is what may be called a strictly typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a feeling of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There is fever and the profuse sweating, so generally attendant on acute rheumatism. I did not bring this pationt before you with the intention of giving you a lecture on all the points connected with rheumatism, but to again give a trial to the new remody we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there could not see a fairer opportunity for testing the medicine in misgivings as to which was the efficient remedy. You chall see the case of a future olinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT

Jums 9, 1860.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acute rheumatism before you at our clinic or May 38th, which I then called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days. The patient has get along very dicely, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have never soon as severe a case of acute rheumatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive by as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state ue of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride
