

HARRISBURG, PA. Monday Afternoon, November 8, 1862.

THE ELECTIONS TO-MORROW. New York, and other states not necessary here to enumerate, will hold elections for different officers to-morrow. The issue in these states is one fairly involving the necessity and admiration for a people thus nobly struggling duty of supporting the government. So far as the men comprising the Republican party are their established government. No people have concerned, who are not in the ranks of the army battling for the defence of the government at the risk of their lives, this issue is a lits own preservation. And after all this, the vital principle in their creed, on which all their political doctrines depend for success. It was Battles have been fought and victories won, the issue in this state, and on this support of but still the question rings from lip to lip, What the government, the Republicans of the Union, whether organized as a party, or scattered by our readers. We do not complain. We through the army as fighting men, base all their ideas of purity in politics and patriotism the multitude. We only give publicity to the of purpose. If the war men (by whom we questions of the anxious wives and mothers mean of course the Republicans and all honest Democrats) succeed in New York, it will be on this issue, because as this involves a principle cause they believe if what is right is once ac and a duly, the contest was waged in all the states that are to hold their elections to morrow.

As the army is now so largely composed of Republicans and Democrats who are in favor of sustaining the national war policy, of course the Republican party alone cannot be expected which will vote to-morrow. If the south had not rebelled-if slaves had only continued its grumbling against liberty and a free govern ment, and war had not called out such countless numbers of the Republicans of the states, that glorious party would have the numbers and the prestige to whip all the corrupt factions which now rally to the hackneyed call of modern Democracy. But, as the case is different, and the situation of parties in the states alluded to, such as to give a certain advantage to prepare ourselves for any result, prepare ourselves to be grateful for victory or, if defeated, not to be disheartened. Present victory to our political enemies, will of course add fury and hope to their rebel friends, but it dare and must not dampen the ardor of the loyal men of the land. It must not for a moment inspire our fear or create a doubt, as to our ultimate success. Democratic victories, when they may be called such, are brought about by the same influence to day that they were twenty years ago. same party leaders labor for success by startling the fears and arousing the resentments of men. It was our duty lately to combat such appeals. Let us hope that the combats of our friends against the same influence will result in a brilliant victory for the government in the states that are to hold their elections to-morrow.

This is of course subterfuge; late the force which the love of freedom has and since the release of the men thus unlawfully arrested and forcibly detained, we learn that the whole business will be brought before the authorities in a shape that will at once secure the ends for which these men were laboring when thus arrested

The parties thus arrested, on arriving at the Fort, were informed that an order had already his delinquency in this respect. The complaint of the men thus arrested by Gen. Wool, is that their treatment was brutal in were neither provided with food or means of resting in sleep. The boat was detained by a misunderstanding of the orders, and altogether, the affair was most outrageous and disgraceful. As we stated above, the gentlemen thus arrested and released on Saturday last, are engaged in preparing a full account of the whole to fight a duel with John A. Potter, of Wisconaffair, which will be laid before the Governor of Maryland, and by that officer brought before knives. The idea, therefore, of Pryor fighting the President of the United States.

NUMBER OF SURGEONS IN THE ARMY. -In the regular service there are 281 surgeons and 27 gentlemen of the south? enlisted medical cadets and hospital stewards. The total amount of these is 4,124, and is exclusive of new appointments.

Mr. Lyons has proposed a resolution in the rebel Congress offering $20 to every negro who should kill a white Union soldier. Pretty good for our "wayward sisters," who howl so dis mally over the arming of negroes.

POPULAR SUSPICIONS—WHO ARE THE FRIENDS OF THE UNION?

lurk in every passing hour, and when the fears of loyal men are in constant attendance on their love and solicitude for the country, the mere suspicion of a wrong is sufficient to arous alarm and apprehension. For a year past the people have paid little attention to the manage ment of the army. When money was required, the coffers of individuals and the vaults o banks were freely opened to the demands and wants of the government. When men wer needed, they poured forth from every hamlet, village, town and city, like the mountain torrents rolling and rushing to the vallies, irresistible in their onset, powerful in their force and majestic in their numbers. As this was going on among the patriotic masses-as millions of treasure were lavishly poured out, an life and limb devoted with enthusiasm to the eternal establishment of liberty and the Union, the world stood by in amazement and for national existence and the vindication of ever made such sacrifices for a principle—no power ever had command of such resources for people begin to ask, What has been accomplished? have we accomplished? Let us not be mistaken only repeat the complaining questions of and sisters of our brave men in the field, who are curious to know what has been done, becomplished, their loved ones, their protectors, will be returned to them in honor and glory, even though it be crippled and war-worn.

Since the idle speech of Major Key, who boasted of a certain programme governing the movements of the armies, and who was rightto gain a political victory in either of the states | fully dismissed for his audacity, the people have been suspicious of some of the officers of these armies. We have heard the question asked among shrewd and sagacious men, whether it was possible that a conspiracy existed against the government, even among those who commanded the loyal armies of the Republic; and those abroard and sagacious men were mute,

The Examiner has an article on the treatment of the exchanged prisoners at Aiken's Landing, in which it says, "we have been waited upon by several of the surgeons who came up from their these abroard and sagacious men were mute, all these abroard and sagacious men were mute, all these abroard and sagacious men were mute, and the sagacious men were mu sorrowfully silent before the dreadful suspicion which seemed to have taken possession of them. No man doubts the Cabinet. the secret enemies of the Government, we must But we must remember that the President and his seven legal advisers are only men engaged against an army such as was never before organised on this continent. That army is officered by bold, able, determined men, and though the President and his Cabinet are sup posed to constitute a power superior to these this city Richmond, is sentenced to wear a barofficers, and that these same armies are obedired shirt with the words "liquor smuggler" officers, and that these same armies are obedient only on the direction of the civil and military powers as it is centered in the President. how easy would it be for the leaders of those forces to rule, to fix a policy for their Then victories were gained by appealing to the own direction, to move when they please, punignorance and the prejudices of men-now, the ish the enemy as they please, and arrange a programme as they may see fit for their own benefit and personal tastes. Has the condition of affairs ever looked as if such were the relations between the civil and military power, as the one is represented by the administration, and the other centered in the hands of the officers of the army? These are questions which > to force them into terms with the traitors disposition of the American masses. They mis engendered among free men. The rebels and the rebel States must be conquered. The officer in the army who does not fight on this policy, is not fighting the battles of the country, and it were better that a mill-stone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the middle of the sea, than that the people discover in the end, his disgrace would be the same

THERE IS A STORY affoat in the southern DS pers. from which it has drifted into some of the northern journals, relating how Roger A. Pryor had wandered into our lines, how this rebel Brigadier General had been discovered by two the extreme. While on board the boat, they Mankee soldiers, and how the valiant Pryor worsted both with a bayonet which he snatched from one of them, thus managing to make his escape. This must be one of Pryor's own romances, because we know that he regards weapons of a long blade as too barbarous for a gentleman to use in honorable combat. He it was, who, it will be remembered, refused sin, because Potter preferred two pound howie with a bayonet, is foolish. The story in reference to it must be a romance to delight the chivalry. Is it not a shame thus to delude the FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 1. The second mate and seven of the sailor from the ship Allegheny, which was recently burned at the mouth of the Rappahannock, arrived at Fortress Monroe to-day from Yorktown under arrest. The crew of the Allegheny numbered twenty men. The eight men were picked up by the U.S. gunboat Monticello, and taken to Yorktown. We have learned Lothing definite in regard to the destruction of this ship by fire, but the investigation which will probably be made and the examination of these men now under arrest will no doubt throw the crime upon the right parties.

The Richmond Examiner of the 80th says:
Day before yesterday a Yankee gun boat came up the York river as far as West Point. They nade no stay, but gave notice that they intend ed to send up a large vessel to blockade the river, and put a stop to the trade in that direction, which is principally oysters.

They also say that the people on the Rappa hannock river have not yet tasted the horrors of war, and they intend to pay them a visit
