MILITARY BUSINESS.

LIEUT KLEKNER, Provost Marshal at this post, has been elected Colonel of one of the Regiments recently organized by the drafted men in Camp Curtin. He is an enthusiastic

THE TEACHERS of the Susquehanna School District respectfully invite all friends of education-those who earnestly desire the advancement of education in our common schools-to attend the District Institute, which will be held at Nissley's school house on Saturday, Nov. 15.

WILD PIGEONS.—The Hanover Speciator says "This savorite game has already made its appearance in the woods and country adjoining town, and every day large numbers of our sportsmen can be seen wending their way informed that they are very abundant this year, and they will afford fine sport to our gunners."

THE RIVALS.—We notice by our exchanges that two ex newspaper writers, and both devoted Democrats, are out for the position of Ser-Representatives. Both won their proudest laurels as writers and opponents of the National on the purchaser. We perceive that some of triotism strengthened, and ready to be devoted Administration, while identified with the Patriot and Union, but as they have ceased to be connected with that sheet, they will offer themselves, of course, on other merit than any which they gained by that connection. We would suppose (in the absence of any definite or expressed claim of either to the position) that our quondam friend J nes will "run" on his handsome, while MacDowell will of course enter the track of the Legislative office hunting course, on his valor and the reputation he won in the "big war." We'll bet on "handsome," as he has such persuasive ways; but of course the success of neither will affect the market for wool or whisky.

THE WIFE of one of the drafted men from Derry township, Mr. F., was appealed to by another lady whose husband had been also drafted, but who had procured a substitute, to know why the husband of the lady in question did not also provide himself with such a shield from war.

"Your husband is worth money—he could have afforded to pay some one to fight for him better than my husband could, and therefore we all wonder that he has gone with the drafted men," were the interrogation and the surprise expressed by the questioning dame.

"You need not wonder," replied Mrs. F. "My husband and myself freely consulted on fice of time and service for the dear old fing and our glorious country. I thought so too, kissed him and told him to go to the war." "Yes, Mrs. F., that is all very well," continued her persecutor, "but suppose your hushand is killed?"

"I would rather be the widow of a fighting man and a soldier, than the wife of a meak and coward!" was the rejoinder of Mrs. F.

This ended all further conversation.
