NEVER, in the history of minstrelsy, did a manager present an array of attractions equal to that placed before the public by S. S. Sanford, the celebrated head of the profession, and no manager has attained a reputation such as that enjoyed by Sanford. He is known all over the country, in the east, west, north and south, and can anywhere and at all times command audiences of the largest dimensions. Here, in Harrisburg, where his Opera House is located, his entertainments are nightly witnessed by large and attentive crowds, who pronounce the performances No. 1. This week the great Easter Pantomime, Mother Goose, is played nightly, in all its original beauty. Go and see it. Don't forget the matinee for ladies and children tomorrow afternoon.

GRAND BILL OF ATTRACTION!—Sixty-Second Night of the Great Star Company!—New Plays and New Faces!—To-night, in addition to the famous Kate Dennin and Sam. Ryan, several new performers will appear at the theatre. Among these we notice the names of Miss Nellie Sprague, the beautiful young tragedienne, who has become a favorite in the eastern theatres. Also, Messrs. P. T. Byrne, R. Kelton, W. F. Morris and J. T. Bridges, all fine performers. The great popular drama, Romeo and Juliet, will this evening, for the first time, be presented to the people of Harrisburg, by Rouse's splendid company. Miss Kate Dennin will appear in her great favorite character of Romeo. Miss Nellie Sprague will appear as Juliet. The entertainment will conclude with the $250 Prize Drama, entitled The Mountain Outlaw, in which Sam. E. Ryan the celebrated Irish Comedian, will appear as Lanty McLaughlin. A better bill than this was never presented to our citizens, and as to-night is the last but one of the engagement of Miss Dennin, we predict a rush to the hall such as has never been witnessed in this city. Secure your seats at Bannvart's Drug Store, to-day.

THE ROMANCE OF THE WAR—No. 2.—In a recent issue we gave a general outline of the manner in which the arch-traitor and scoundrel-in-general, John E. Force, was decoyed out of the "Lion's den," and carried triumphantly to the Eagle's nest, which rests securely amid the topmost branches of the Tree of Liberty.

To-day we have the pleasure of presenting our readers with a limited number of the letters written by Detective Franklin.

But before going further, let us beg the pardon of the kind-hearted, amiable and accomplished "Mrs. F." and her beautiful and affectionate sister, for this violation of the sanctity of private correspondence.

The following letter, although dated at Buffalo, was written in St. Catharines, C. W.

The object in dating it at Buffalo was to leave the imaginary cousin to suppose that Franklin was still in the States, and that he would soon settle his little troubles, and return and hold the cousin to account for his conduct.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 8, 1864.

DEAR COUSIN:—You will undoubtedly be surprised at receiving a letter from me, dated this side of the "line."

I am quite unwell, which will account for my troubling a friend to write for me. My indisposition is the result of a severe cold, and is not serious.

I received a letter from Amanda last week. She and Etta are both well. Do not have any apprehensions for my safety here, as I am staying with our mutual friend Clark, who, you know, is all right.

Now to business. I have received a letter from Adjutant General Thomas, in which he states that in case I will return he will guarantee to me an immediate and impartial hearing. He states that he has carefully examined the evidence adduced at my trial before Judge Advocate Holt, and assures me that there is nothing contained in the evidence that can possibly result in a conviction consequent to me; and concludes with the assurance that the influence of my friends, Judges Hale and Collamer, will be sufficient to restore me my commission. As it will be necessary, however, to incur considerable expense in bringing about this very desirable result, I am not in possession of sufficient funds to enable me to retain the services of three distinguished gentlemen, whose "friendship" is very expensive.

I have mentioned these circumstances that you may better understand my reason for urging upon you the necessity of immediately disposing of all personal property in your possession, belonging either to me or my wife.

I think it would be advisable to accept the offer of Mr. Beckwith, as it would require too much time to dispose of the property at auction.

All the property, which Mr. Beckwith will not take, you may sell to uncle Zophar, at his own price. You will represent to him that my affairs are in a lamentable condition; that I am in voluntary "exile." This will work upon his feelings that he will be willing to pay more than under ordinary circumstances.

The instrument—a present to Amanda from her father—you will send per Adams express to C. W. Lowman, 1223 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, Pa., where Amanda is now staying. The money you will exchange for gold, at Reed's, in Cleveland.

This you will send in the address of my wife, to Philadelphia, Pa.; care of G. W. Lowman. Address as above.

At the time of exchanging the money at Reed's for gold, you will present the certificate of special deposit for one hundred and eighty dollars ($180) in gold, which I sent you in my last; as it is already endorsed. They will think nothing strange in your presenting it.

Make all possible haste in this matter, as delays are dangerous. Deduct an amount sufficient to satisfy you, and defray all expenses. You will please to carefully watch the buildings, and see that no harm comes to them. Do not rent the buildings, as I intend to fill the stock next spring (this summer). Hoping that this will find you self and family in excellent health and spirits, I am, believe me, ever sincerely and fraternally your obedient servant and friend.

CORWIN BEN. FRANKLIN.

At the same time the following letter dictated by Mr. F., but written by Force, was mailed to the better half of the former.

ST. CATHARINES, C. W., Feb. 8, 1864.

DEAR WIFE: I have written to Silas to dispose of our property immediately. He will send the money to you, addressed as follows: G. W. Lowman, Esq., No. 1223 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, Pa., where he will also send you my instrument.

My love, if you can forego the pleasure of again seeing our friends in Ashabula, Ohio, I think it would be advisable, in view of the arrangements I am making, for you to proceed at once to Philadelphia, to which place I have this day addressed you a letter, in which my plans for the immediate future are clearly delineated.

Etta will accompany you. Please go prepared for a long journey. Do not write to any of our friends, except Nettie or Louis.

Darling, are you willing to accompany me to that remote clime which Oscar has told us so much of, and is Etta willing to go? Please tell me, love, in your next. Excuse the brevity of this letter; as it is written under very unfavorable circumstances. I am quite seriously indisposed to-day, which is the reason of my taxing the kindness of a new friend to write for me.

In case you have not succeeded in disposing of the press, you will have them shipped to Mr. Adolphus Wolfe, No. 14 Columbia street, New York city. Get all your money exchanged for gold.

Be very careful, dearest, not to hint even to our most intimate friends, that we have the most remote idea of leaving the country.

Be of good cheer, love. It is often the darkest hour just before day. God keep thee. Kiss Etta for me, dear, and believe me ever sincerely and affectionately your husband and lover, CORWIN BEN. FRANKLIN.

P. S.—My love, you must caution Etta against falling in love with the gentleman whose photograph I enclose; for although he is the soul of honor, and without alloy of fop or coxcomb—a finished gentleman from top to toe—he is, withal, a gallant, dashing young man, and would run off with a lady's heart like a starved pig with sugar of corn.

Affectionately yours, FRANK.

In the time the heart of the exiled Franklin was made glad by the reception of the following letters from his devoted spouse:

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., February 14, 1864.

MY DEAR FRANK—My Husband—Your letter of the 8th came to hand yesterday, and I hasten to reply. I did not visit any of our friends in Ashabula county, fearing that their endless talking and questioning might lead me to betray some of your intentions. I will be brief, as you know everything I would say, dear, respecting ourselves. You ask me if I would go with you to that far-off clime, of which your brother has told us so much.

I will only repeat, my love, what I have so often told you, that I will go any place where you may wish me to go, and all I ask, that you will not separate me from Etta. I received the money which Silas received for the property he sold. He also wrote that he had sold it without waiting to hear from you, as he considered the offer of Mr. Beckwith a very reasonable one. He received all the money from the bank, &c., and received your letter the same day, and so he sent the money and instrument that night. I am quite sure that your original plan will be the best decided, and you know I would not speak thus if I did not consider it perfectly safe.

I have in all now $3,000.00 in gold of your money, besides my own, though no one here thinks I have more than a few dollars.

I sold my instrument for $300, one-half what it cost, and I am going to the place I mentioned in my last, from which we can start on our journey in safety. You spoke of having found "a friend." I am glad you find friends, my dear, but you are always finding friends wherever you go, and although you friend a great many, my Frank, how many befriended you, or ever make any return for your kindness? I am sure such a gentleman as the one you describe, will be a very agreeable companion, and may become a firm friend, and—; but Etta says I must not write what she has said. My letter is, however, getting so long, so, my love, good-night, and as this is the last I shall write, (hoping you will start immediately.)

I remain, dearest, ever affectionately, your wife,

AMANDA FRANKLIN.

BUFFALO, Feb. 10, 1864.

DEAR FRANK—My Husband—I have but a few moments to write before the train leaves. I sold the press and type for $2,400.00 in cash, and Mr. Burnett says he thinks he can dispose of the engine and boilers for $700.00 more. How did it do right? If I did not, dear Frank, do not scold me.

You know I do always the best I know how. Etta and I are going to leave for Bakersfield, or, as you directed, as soon as Mr. Burnett sells the horse-goods, which will be very soon. We will go via Baltimore and Philadelphia, Pa. You must thoroughly disguise yourself, dear, and go by Montreal and Plattsburg, which is the only safe route now. I am dying to see you, love, and so is Etta. The abolitionists are turning the world upside down, to get some clue to you, and don't you believe they sent one to St. Louis, Mo., after you? Good!—that place is near the line, as you will see by the map, and you will be perfectly safe there.

I received a letter from John yesterday. He has sold your store in New Lyme, and got the money for it. He received $40,000.00 in gold, of course you will lose, being a rebel. I am glad you are one, though, dear. I love this life of excitement and adventure. I have time to write no more now.

3,000.01 kisses to you, darling, and remember I am

Ever affectionately your wife,

AMANDA FRANKLIN.

Franklin always managed to be in company with Force when he received any letters, and was always so overcome with emotion on recognizing that "dear familiar hand," that he was fain to call on his friend to read them for him, and Force himself was frequently affected to tears by the contents of the letters he was called upon to read; and it is affirmed that when he saw the words five thousand three hundred dollars in gold, his eyes expanded to the size of ordinary cart wheels.

Things were now fast coming to a "point," and the following letter was sent to the imaginary Mr. Clark in Buffalo:

SUSPENSION RIDER, C. W., February 19, 1864.

FRIEND CLARK—Dear Sir: I arrived here this A. M. Not meeting you as I expected, I went to Charles, but ascertained that he had left for Buffalo this morning. Not wishing to trust to any other, I concluded to address you a few lines, to inform you that I have concluded to adopt my original plan.

I wish you to furnish me all the necessary information, to enable me to put that plan into execution. I received a letter from Amanda, in which she informs me that she has disposed of our property, with some slight exceptions, so that I am now able to control all my available means.

Delays are dangerous. I wish you to go with me to New York, either from Buffalo or Ogdensburg.

You will be liberally remunerated for all your trouble; besides, we shall consider ourselves under obligations to you for your kindness in the past, as well as during our present troubles; for which may God reward you. I may have a friend to accompany me, who I direct to St. Catharines, C. W.

Hoping that this may find you all in good health, with my sincere regards to your wife, I am, with very great respect, your obedient servant and fraternal friend,

C. B. FRANKLIN.

Franklin then went to Buffalo, (without the knowledge of Force,) where he wrote the following letter, which the Provost Marshal copied and sent at the time agreed upon:

BUFFALO, February 21, 1864.

FRIEND FRANKLIN—Your letter, which came duly to hand, and I hasten to reply.

You will, I am sure, pardon me for failing to comply with your request to write you at the Falls, when you learn the cause.

My wife has been suffering for some time past with neuralgia, and during the entire week she required my presence constantly. She has, however, so far recovered as to enable me to devote most of my time to business; and as she is equally as desirous myself to render you all the assistance possible under the circumstances, I proceed to furnish you all the information you will require, to enable you to safely reach either New York or Portland.

You will leave St. Catharines at 8.35 P. M., arrive at the Bridge at 9.10 P. M. You had probably better cross on foot, as there is no boat on any passing at this time, so you will not be delayed. Get on board the carriage road to the lower end of the New York Central Depot, and take the first train that goes East, if you wish to go to Rochester, although I think you had better come this way. I would not buy a ticket at the depot.

You will have no difficulty, as there has been no one arrested there for some time, and no one pays any attention to any one who goes straight along, as though they were not read.

Be sure you telegraph me long enough before you start to enable me to be at the depot with my carriage. I shall expect you, and be at the depot Wednesday and Thursday nights. If you do not come either of these nights, I shall conclude you have gone by way of Rochester to Portland, unless you telegraph.

If you consider it safe (and I think there is no less danger) to come this way, I will go with you to New York, but cannot probably go to Portland. If you go to New York without seeing me, go to No. 108 Columbia street, which is my brother John's residence, where you will be perfectly safe for any length of time.

I would advise you to purchase tickets to the British steamers. If you come this way I will furnish you the tickets myself. Do not, in any event, purchase the tickets yourself. My brother John will attend to all such matters for you.

Amanda is now staying at Bakersfield, Vermont, and I would advise you not to send either by mail or telegraph for her, until you get on board, and she will have plenty of time to come, as you can go on board three days before the steamer leaves. The moment you step on the deck of a British vessel you are safe.

The friend you mention, though a stranger, is nevertheless a brother, and if an Odd Fellow, you may depend upon his honor and integrity; and the fact of his being obnoxious to the "powers that be," is pretty good evidence that he is an honest man, as they can use rogues too effectually to allow them to emigrate.

Get some man who is a Mason and an Odd Fellow to try him in Odd Fellowship, and if he proves sound, you need have no fears of his betraying you.

Amanda left one hundred dollars for you. In case you do not require it, I will send it by express to New York. Do not take any more baggage than you can carry in your hand—reason is obvious.

I would advise you by all means, to go as soon as possible, as the winter trip is far more preferable to the spring or summer trip, and persons going there in the spring get acclimated sooner than those who reach there during the latter part of the summer.

I had almost forgotten to mention that I noticed an article in the Shield and Banner, stating that you had accepted a commission from Jeff. Davis, and had been assigned to an important command in Mississippi. Good for you.

Hoping that I may have the pleasure of seeing you soon, with the sincere prayers of myself and wife for the success of your undertaking, I am truly yours, etc., J. D. CLARK.

P. S.—I give you the time according to the schedule of the Great Western road, which may have been changed. See to this. J. D. C.

The above letter was accompanied by the following card:

J. D. CLARK, GENERAL AND PASSENGER AGENT, No. 99 EXCHANGE, BUFFALO, Only Agent in the City for the British Australian Line of Steamers.

On reading the above letter the patriots exclaimed in one breath, the crises which were about to have arrows have arrived!—"Well—'a long farewell to Canada!" They then cautiously proceeded to leave the "territory of the Queen." The result is already known to our readers. When they were pounced upon in Buffalo by a score of detectives, both were sorely frightened at the hostile demonstrations of the officers, Force exclaiming, in the language of the poet,

"Goshall, Hemlock!"

At the same time Franklin ejaculated, "Long-lead Moss!"

We have devoted our time and space to the publication of the modus operandi by which this villain was brought to justice, not merely to edify our readers, but to show that no matter how shrewd the offender against the laws of the land, he will ultimately be brought to justice. It is the determination of the present Administration to see the laws executed, no matter at how great a sacrifice of time or money. This should be a subject of congratulation to every man capable of bearing arms, especially when we reflect that the fighting to be done by honest men and patriots is increased by every desertion.

The part that should be performed by the cowardly politicians and miserable shirks, who desert their country in her hour of need, has to be borne by those who are too brave and patriotic to shrink from sharing in the glorious work of crushing the rebellion and maintaining our glorious cause.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BANNVART'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, For the cure of Hoarseness, Throat Diseases, &c. Are specially recommended to military and naval officers, and to all who are called upon to speak in public. Manufactured only by C. A. Bannvart & Co., Harrisburg, Pa., to whom all orders should be addressed. Sold by druggists every where.

Read the following testimonials from some of our eminent clergymen:

HARRISBURG, Feb. 8th, 1864.

C. A. BANNVART—Dear Sir: I have used Brown's Bronchial Troches, Wistar's Lozenges and other preparations for hoarseness and throat troubles, and in comparison with them all, can cheerfully commend your own as a most admirable specific for public speakers and singers, in cases of hoarseness, coughs and colds. I have found them serving in time of need, most effectually.

Yours, decy., T. H. ROBINSON, Pastor of N. S. Presbyterian Church.

I agree with Mr. Robinson as to the value of Bannvart's Bronchial Troches.

W. C. CATTELL, Late Pastor of O. S. Presbyterian Church.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 1864.

To C. A. BANNVART—Dear Sir: In the habit of speaking in public, frequently, and in places where the vocal organs are very much taxed, I have found the need of some gentle expectorant, and that want has been supplied in your excellent Troches.

I consider them very far superior to any Lozenges that I have ever used, in removing that huskiness of the voice; arising from its too frequent use, and impairing the effectiveness of the delivery of public addresses. Yours, decy., J. N. WALKER JACKSON, Pastor of the Locust St. Methodist Church.

To C. A. BANNVART—Dear Sir: Having used your Bronchial Troches, I am free to say they are the best I have ever tried and take great pleasure in recommending them to all persons who are afflicted with hoarseness, and in clearing the voice from all public speaking or singing. Yours, decy., G. G. BAKERSTRAW, Pastor of Edge Avenue Methodist Church.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE, HARRISBURG, Feb. 29, 1864.

To C. A. BANNVART—Dear Sir:—I have found your Troches to be invaluable in relieving hoarseness and in strengthening the muscles of the throat. They impart clearness to the voice; and are certainly of great benefit to all public speakers. A. J. HERR.

Mrs. Ball's Remedies.

I take this method of cheerfully thanking the public for past favors, and still solicit their kind attention to my medicines. To tell of all the wonderful cures I have been able to perform would be impossible, would call the attention of the ladies particularly to this valuable medicine. I think I can safely say it is the very best offered, and will regulate the whole system; can be taken at any time; no fear need be apprehended in regard to it. I have also a valuable salve to kill proud flesh, and to cure all kinds of skin diseases, such as those that have run 20 years. My Dysentery Drops, Infant Cordial and Cough Drops have been well tried. I need say nothing in their favor. I have constantly on hand Medicines and Salves. W. B. L. BALM, No. 27 South Pine street, Harrisburg, Pa.

Coughs and Colds. The sudden changes of our climate are sources of frequent bronchial and pulmonary affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should be had to Brown's Bronchial Troches, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough or irritation of the Throat be once so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually averted. These Remedies will not only relieve the irritation, clearing and strengthening the voice. Soldiers should have them, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken at occasion requires. W. B. L. BALM, No. 27 South Pine street, Harrisburg, Pa.
