Cherokee Remedy,

CHEROKEE INJECTION! COMPOUNDED FROM ROOTS, BARKS AND LEAVES.

CHEROKEEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic. cures all diseases of the urinary organs; such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, Gonnorhea, and is especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus (or Whites in females) when eous medicines have failed.

It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the doze only being from one to two teaspoonfuls three times per day.

Es It is diuretic and alterative in its action; purifying and cleansing the blood, causing it to flow in all of its original purity and vigor; thus removing from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease. CHEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an ally or assist ant to the CHEROKEE REMEDY and should be used in conjunction with that medicine in all cases of Gonorrhea Gleet, Fulor Albus or Whites. Its offects are healing soothing and demulcent; removing all scalding, heat chordee and pain, instead of the burning and almost unendurable pain that is experienced with nearly all the cheap quack Injections.

the one of the CHEROKEE REMEDY and CHEROKEE INJECTION—the two medicines at the same time-all improper discharges are removed, and the weak ened organs are speedily restored to full viger and strength.

bined forces of Crook and Averell, moved from Staunton at 5 o'clock this morning. We destroyed over three million dollars worth of rebel property at Staunton, two large cloth factories, and a boot and shoe factory, and extensive foundries. General Stahl was wounded in the shoulder whistiand to keep the courses up.

REBEL REPORTS: The A

The Richmond Examiner, speaking of Richmond, says, in a sentence evidently unfinished by the boom of Grant's cannon: "If those highly excited official circles of Washington and delighted newspaper readers of New York and Boston, could but see the tranquil screnity of these embowered streets at this day—how peacefully our people go about their daily business; how quietly they buy and sell, or even marry or are given in marriage, as in the day when Noah entered into the Ark."

The simile is singular, to say the least, for when Noah entered the Ark, the outsiders who h d so long scoffed at his prophesies, were slightly surprised, not to say demoralized. The editor goes on to tell his readers that Grant means mischief; that "they know that a mighty power has gathered countless hosts around this place, commissioned to raze it utterly, and leave not one stone upon another; true, they knew that accurate plans of the Doomed City, mustiplied by the hundred thousand, point out this very moment every approach to their peaceful homes, and indicate each most advantageous method of crushing, sacking and burning the place, drenching these leafy shades with blood, and strewing these leafy shades with blood, and strewing them with mangled bones and spattered

The Whig, among much braggadocia, says of General Grant:
All admit that Grant has made the Yankees fight as they never fought before. Time and again they have charged very formidable works, and on two occasions they have carried a portion of those works by storm. To ned a portion of those works by storm. To be sure, the salients thus carried were the weak points of our defence; but, compared with other works before which the Yankees under Burnside, Hooker, and other commanders failed, they were powerful indeed. The stone wall at Marye's Hill, of which so much stone wall at Marye's Hill, of which so much was said at the time of Burnside's defeat, was not much higher than a man's knee; and the works erected by the Confederates the night before that bloody repulse, were simple ridepits, thrown up with bayonets and tin pans.

Not only has Grant infused audaeny into his men, and made them fight recklessly—foolishly, but he has conducted the campaign on principles derived from personal expensions.

on principles derived from personal experience in previous campaigns.

In another article, the Examine, though as truculent as ever, seems to have its fears as to the result:

We hope the Confederate Government is not still in want of evidence to satisfy it that the whole of this great war is actually concentrated on Virginia, and pressed into a summer's campaign. We hope it now realizes the gigantic character of the operations in course execution.

If it does not, we beg leave to direct aftention to the two telegraphs we have extracted and printed above. They contain the truth. and printed above. They contain the reach at the is on the Chickahominy. All other events are now insignigeant trifles; all other military movements are blinds and de usions. Here is the final tral of its strength. According to the action or inaction of the Government, Lee will triumph or fail. The prize for which the enemy contends is enormous, and his profits by vicory will be incalculable. But they are no content than our own will be if this pushes. greater than our own will be if this business terminates well for us.

DOUBTFUL.

The subjoined items may be or may not be

News.-We have received a note from a person in the city of Washington, who has more than ordinary intelligence, and better means of arriving at the truth than those through whom the news from the enemy's lines are generally received. We think that the statements contained in it are entirely in accord with the actual facts:

"May 30, 1864. The Yankee army numbered one hundred and fifty thousand, cavalry and artillery included, when it crossed the Rapidan. They lost sixty thousand, killed, wounded and missing, in the engagements wounded and missing, in the engagements terminating at Sportsylvania Court House. Reinforcements to the number of forty thou-sand have passed through Fredericksburg, and by way of Port Royal. This leaves their army by way of Port Royal. This leaves their army one hundred and thirty thousand strong at the present time.

The unanimous determination of Lincoln, his Cabinet, and the commanding Generals is to concentrate the whole available power of the United States for the capture of Richmond. To this end reinforcements will be sent for weeks to come. This information comes from the highest authority—General Meigs, the Quartermaster General of the United States." We repeat, this letter is an authentic statement of the enemy's intention and plan; also, of the force now in front of General Lee.— Since the battle of Spottsylvania Grant has lost considerably by skirmishers, and a very much larger number by stragglers. But this loss has been fully replaced by Butler. The army engaged with General Lee, under no supposition, can be considered less than 130, 000 effective men at the present time.

THE EXPULSION OF GERMAN AND IRISH WOME:

We commend the following paragraph to Irish citizens here and elsewhere who sympathize with the rebellion:

[From the Richmond Whig, June 8.] We have previously had occasion, incidentally, to notice that class of Irish and German women in our midst whose husbands have gone over to the Yankees, and many of them entered the Yankee service. Louisville, June 14. Officers who have just arrived from the front, report, that on Friday last, Wheeler, with a large force of cavalry, appeared at Calhoun, on the railroad between Chattanooga and the army—seized six cafe ladened with grain and cut the telegraph wires. The train coming north was notified at Adairsville and stopped. General A. P. Hovey was on the train, and collected some two hundred convalescents, formed a line of battle in front of lescents, formed a line of battle in front of the train and moved forward cautiously. On his arrival he found that the enemy had re-treated from the town, and the train moved on treated from the town, and the train moved on with usual speed towards Resaca.

When about half way there an enormous torpedo, placed under the track by the rabels, exploded, hurling the locomotive six feet from the track. Four cars immediately in the rear were torn to splinters, but fortunately the troops were in the rear car and escaped univer. The box containing the missile was injury. The box containing the missile was marked "powder, C. S. A., 35 pounds." No one was seriously injured by the explosion. Capt. Barlow, of Gen. Logan's Staff, was bruised.

The train passed in the evening to Resaca. The same night Wheeler appeared again on the royd below Calhoun and tore up a considerable portion of the track, which has since been repaired, and the trains are again run-

A gentleman who left the front on the 9th says that our cavalry on a reconncissance to the front found only a light force of rebel cav-alry, which after a severe skirmish fell back and crossed the Chattahochee river. Prisoners taken, report that the whole rebel army is on the south side of this river, determined to oppose the passage by our army to the last. The river being much swollen by late heavy rains, no serious engagement could occur until it falls.

MUTINY AT SEA.

Conspiracy to Seize California Steamer Ocean Queen.

Two of the Ringleaders Killed. The California steamship Ocean Queen, on her departure from New York to Aspinwall on the 15th ult, took out two hundred and seventeen sailors, most of whom had been transferred from the army to the navy, and she had on board also about five hundred passengers. On the third day out about thirty of the sailors endeavored to seize the steamer. There sailors endeavored to seize the steamer. There had been indications of trouble previous to this attempt, but the men failed to put their plot into execution.

It seems that these men had formed a plan to seize the steamship. Their first object was the killing of all persons who should oppose them, and the conspiracy included the run ning of the vessel, after her seizure, on their own account.

The intention of the mutineers was to take the vessel on the first night after her departure, but they had no engineer among their number that could work her engines. Threats of violence had, however, been somewhat openly made, and there was much excitement on board. On the day mentioned, under pretence that true—the reader must make his own estimate of their value. they wished to go into the first cabin, the mutineers attacked Capt. Tinglepaugh, who would not permit them to do as they desired.

This was a signal for a combined movement of the conspirators, and the men who were in the plot acted under the leadership of the most desperate of their number.

The ringleaders advanced upon the Captain and Commander Ammen, of the Navy, who and commander animen, or the ravy, who had the sailors in charge.

The Captain, who had expected the difficulty, and was prepared, aimed his revolver at the head of the foremost man, and warned the head of the foremost man, and warned him that if he advanced a step further he would lose his life.

The mutineer, with a horrible cath, called the Captain a coward, and, daring him to fire, sprang forward. Captain Tinklepaugh kept his word. The bullet from the weapon, which covered the ruffian's head, entered his brain, and he fell, almost instantly expiring. The excitement among the passengers, many of whom were ladies, and also among the mutineers, was at this time intense. The latter rushed forward, and the mutineer who followed the first was fired at by Commander.

Ammen and by three or four officers, among whom was the Chief Engineer of the Ocean Queen.
The short distance from which these officors fired rendered their aim effective in every case, and the mutineer fell, pierced by five or

Seeing that their plot was likely to fail in consequence of the adequate preparations of the officers and crew to defend the vessel, the conspirators made no further efforts. A few minutes after their attack had failed they were entirely quiet; their resolution was gone, and they were easily disarmed and put in irons. There was no further trouble on board The dead mutineers were thrown into the ocean, and the thirty or more men who were in irons were taken to Aspinwall and across the Isthmus. Eight, however, escaped, and another was shot.
