MEETING FOR THE UNION!!

RALLY! RALLY!! RALLY!!!

A MASS MEETING

WILL BE HELD

At the Court House, ON MONDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 10. Col. CARPENTER, of Kentucky, Governor NOBLE, of Wisconsin, Prof. DUNBAR and Col. HARRIMAN will address the meeting

To the Patriotic Voters of the County.

Let every voter who values the integrity of his country, vote the Union DISTRICT AND COUNTY TICKET ON TUESDAY NEXT. Let every voter who desires to put the seal of his condemnation upon REBELS AND THEIR SYMPATHIZERS, vote the Union Ticket on Tuesday next! Let every voter who desires to place good and true men in the County Offices, vote the UNION TICKET ON TUESDAY NEXT! Let every voter who desires to give his support to the GOVERNMENT in putting down REBELLION by sending faithful and honest men to the STATE LEGISLATURE, vote the UNION TICKET on TUESDAY NEXT!

Let every voter who desires the election of a sober and industrious gentleman to Concountry. If I knew that a General did not cover your for GEO. F. MILLER. He will possess the right qualities to command, would represent the loyal people of the 14th district with ability and spurn the bribes of liquor Georgia, I even heard that I had sent Bragg dealers. FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS cannot induce him to vote for any infamous law.

The "Democratic Party" and Free Speech. While "Democratic" presses and orators are crying "free speech," the people do not forget that it was the "Democratic party" which, six years ago, forced upon Kansas, in her "Black Code," this infamous law:

"If any free person, by speaking or by writing, assert or maintain that persons have not the right to hold slaves in this Territory, or shall introduce into this Territory, print, publish, write, circulate or cause to be introduced into this Territory, any book, paper, magazine, pamphlet or circular, containing any denial of the right of persons to hold slaves in this Territory, such person shall be deemed guilty of felony, and punished at hard labor for a term of not less than two years.

Nor do they forget that the men who are now most blatant in their fierce denunciations of the "tyranny" of restrictions upon the "freedom" of treasonable speech, were then the stout upholders of that infamous legislation to gag the opponents of slavery-even in a Territory, where slavery did not exist by the "sovereign right" of State institution. They remember how many of these men stood, in reference to that "Black Code" of Kansas, with George D. Pugh, when in the United States Senate, who said:

"Sir, I regret the necessity for such legisla tion; but where slavery exists as an institution laws of this character must be adopted.' Slavery, in the estimation of George E. Pugh, and of all copperheads like him, is more sacred than country. To speak or to write against the institution of slavery is a crime which demands that penal laws for its suppression "must be adopted;" but to speak or to write against the government of the nation, in a time of rebellion and fierce war against its authority, is a constitutional right, the most trifling interference with which takes precedence of the very rebellion that purposes death to the Constitution, in demanding resistance. This is the doctrine of modern "Democracy."

COL. WALTER B. SCATES OUT FOR THE UNION CANDIDATES.—At a meeting to ratify the Union nominations for county officers at Chicago on Saturday evening last, one of the principal speakers was Col. Walter B. Scates, formerly of Maj. Gen. McClernand's staff. Col Scates is well known throughout Illinois, having formely been upon upon the Supreme Bench, He is a Democrat, but a loyal one, standing by cause an army of the enemy had penetrated the principle taught in his last letters and that valley to the very gates of Lynchburg, and General Early was sent to drive them Scates also declared that he had lately had a long conversation with Maj. STRAITS OF THE REBELS.

Desperate Speech by Jeff. Davis at Macon. Two-Thirds of the Rebel Army Absent

HE SAYS SHERMAN MUST BE CRUSHED.

Without Leave.

Call For Reinforcements.

Lee Too Weak to Hold His Lines.

WASHINGTON, October 6.—The following speech, made by Jefferson Davis at Macon, Ga., September 23, 1864, is extracted from the columns of the Daily Macon Telegraph and Confederate of September 24:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, FRIENDS AND FEL-LOW-CITIZENS:—It would have gladdened my heart to have met you in prosperity, instead of adversity. But friends are drawn together in adversity. The son of a Georgian, who fought through the first Revolution, I would be untrue to myself if I should forget the State in her day of peril.

What if misfortune has befallen our arms from Decatur to Jonesboro, our cause is not lost. Sherman cannot keep up his line of communication and retreat. Sooner or later he must; and when that day comes the fate that befel the army of the French empire in its retreat from Moscow will be re-enacted. Our cavalry and our people will harass and destroy his army as did the Cossacks that of Napoleon; and the Yankee General, like him, will escape with only a body guard.

How can this be the most speedily effected?

By the absentees of Hood's army returning to their posts; and will they not? Can they see the banished exiles; can they hear the call of their effection. their suffering countrywomen and children and not come? By what influences they are made to stay away it is not necessary to speak. If there is one who will stay away at this hour he is unworthy of the name of Georgian. To the women no appeal is necessary. They are the women no appeal is necessary. They are like the Spartan mothers of old. I know of one who has lost all her sons, except one of eight years. She wrote that she wanted me to reserve a place for him in the ranks.

The venerable General Polk, to whom I read the letter, knew that woman well, and said it was characteristic of her; but I will not weary you by turning aside to relate the various incidents of giving up the last son to the cause of our country, known to me. Wherever we go we find the hearts and hands of our noble go we find the hearts and hands of our nonler women enlisted. They are seen wherever the eye may fall or the step turn. They have one duty to perform; to buoy up the hearts of our people. I know the deep disgrace felt by Georgia at our army falling back from Dalton to the interior of the State.

But I was not of those who considered Atlanta lost when our army crossed the Chat-tahoochee. I resolved that it should not, and I then put a man in command who I knew would strike a manly blow for the city, and many a Yankee's blood was made to nourish the soil before the prize was won. It does not become us to revert to disaster. Let the dead bury the dead. Let us, with one arm and one effort, endeavor to crush Sherman. I am going to the army to confer with our Generals. The end must be the defeat of our

It has been said that I abandoned Georgi to her fate. Shame upon such falsehood!
Where could the author have been when Walker, when Polk, and when Gen. Stephen
D. Lee was sent to her assistance! Miserable man! The man who uttered this was a scoundrel. He was not a man to save our I not be wrong if he was not removed! Why, when our army was falling back from Northern with pontoons to cross it to Cuba. But we must be charitable. The man can speculate ought to be made to take up his musket. When the war is over and our independence won—and we will establish our independence—who will be our aristocracy? I hope the limping soldier. To the young ladies I would say that when choosing between an empty sleeve and the man who had remained at home and grown rich, always take the empty sleeve. Let the old men remain at home and make bread. But should they know of any young man keeping away from the service, who can not be made to go any other way, let them write to the Executive. I read all letters sent me from the people; but I have not the time to reply to them. You have not many men between eighteen and forty-five left. The boys, God bless the boys, are as rapidly as they become old enough going to the field. The city of Macon is filled with stores, sick and wounded. It must not be abandoned when threatened; but when the enemy come, instead of calling upon Hood's army for defence the old men must fight; and when the enemy is driven beyond Chattanooga, they too car join in the general rejoicing.

Your prisoners are kept as a sort of Yankee capital. I have heard that one of their Generals said that their exchange would defeat Sherman. I have tried every means, conceded everything to effect an exchange, but to no purpose. Butler, the Beast, with whom the Commissioners of Exchange would hold intercourse, had published in the newspapers that if he would consent to the exchange of ne groes, all difficulties might be removed. This he reported as an effort of his to get himself whitewashed by holding intercourse with gentlemen. If an exchange could be effected, I don't know but that I might be induced to recognize Butler. But in the future every effort will be given, as far as possible, to effect the end. We want our soldiers in the field, and we want our sick and wounded to return home. It is not proper for me to speak of the nummen in the field, but this I will say. that two thirds of our men are absent, some sick, some wounded, but most of them absent without leave. The man who repents and goes back to his commander voluntarily, appeals strongly to executive clemency.

But suppose he stays away until the war is over, and his comrades return home, and when every man's history will be told, where will be shield himself? It is upon these re flections that we rely to make men return to their duty, but after conferring with our Generals at headquarters, if there be any officer remedy it shall be applied. I love my friends, and I forgive my enemies. I have been asked to send reinforcements from Virginia to Geor gia. In Virginia the disparity in numbers is just as great as it is in Georgia. Then I have been asked why the army sent to the Shenandoah Valley was not sent here. It was be two corps of his army to protect it. This the enemy denominated a raid. If so, Sherman's march into Georgia is a raid. What would prevent them now if Early was withdrawn from taking Lynchburg, and putting a complete cordon of men around Richmond? I counselled with that great and brave soldier. General Lee, upon all these points. My mind roamed over the whole field. With this we an succeed.

This he not only successfully did, but cross

It one half the men now absent without leave will return to duty, we can defeat the enemy. With that hope I am going to the front. I may not realize this hope, but I know there are men there who have looked death in the face too often to despond now. Let no one despond. Let no one distrust, and remember that if genius is the beau ideal, hope is the reality.

Kearney vs. McClellan.

THE PENINSULAR CAMPAIGN—M'CLELLAN'S POLIT ICAL AMBITION FORSEEN BY GEN. KEARNEY. ITS EFFECT UPON THE MANAGEMENT OF THE ARMY AT THAT TIME.

The following extracts from a private letter of the lamented Kearney, written June 23, 1862, two days before the commencement of the seven days' battles, shows that the political ambition of the "Young Napoleon" had its origin as far back as the Peninsula campaign, and that his motives were fully read by the soldier, who was far more than his equal in every respect. The letter has never before been printed:

"He has now got us in a queer position, which is neither witty nor bright. The golden season of attack is lost. We have allowed them to collect more men, to establish more forts, to plant heavier guns, and to try forays in our rear. With all my desire of pushing ahead, I think that it is now nearly too late; at least, if we do it, it will only be by more hazardous ventures, and infinitely more bloodshed than at any previous period. Our last chance (the ninth or tenth thrown away) was after the battle of Fair Oaks, when all our troops should have been brought into action, and our way forced into Richmond. Then it might and most probably would have been "Now, I must say that I fancy McClellan has calmly resigned himself to waiting for reinforcements. But in doing this, the enemy collect two men to our one, while McClellan testifies his fears by throwing up fortifications at every point as if we were a bretter. at every point, as if we were a beaten army It breaks down the men by overwork, and cowers them by his proof of distrust, and you will soon find that the enemy will throw him-self on our communications, and repeat his forays—perhaps, even to forcing us to retire to cover them. McClellan is no General, with all for war. I sometimes fear, from his management of this war, that he regards it more in a political than, a military point of view—that he desires to time his military conquest with a certain political ripeness of the South—at best, a very hazardous matter, when it is with the astute, and will and provinced for the south. and wily, and unprincipled Southerner that he attempts to play such a game, and when one reflects that it engenders delay, which is the sure defeat of all armies."

A RICHMOND GUESS AT GRANT'S PLAN OF A RICHMOND GUESS AT GRANTS FLAN OF CAMPAIGN.—A Richmond paper of a recent date says: "A heavy force is to be poured into the Valley to capture Lynchburg, the Tennessee Railroad and the James river canal, Tennessee Rainoad and the sames river canal, and to obtain permanent possession of the Danville railroad. The Central railroad is to be taken and held by a column pushed on from Fredericksburg to the Junction, which will give him the command of both roads. They are to lend a hand to another column to be landed at the White House. Richmond is thus to be cut off from all communication, and finally invested by a powerful army, and the Yapkees believe they will capture it and Lee's whole army."

Kautz' cavalry in their entrenchments, and drove him back with a small loss of men, but with the loss of his artillery. The enemy suffered a very considerable loss in this attack.

The enemy then swept down the entrench ments towards Birney, who having thrown back his right, waited their assault, and repulsed it with heavy loss on the part of the

The enemy, in the meantime, advanced to wards New Market, but were met by a force at the signal tower at 3 r. m.

I took the offensive, sending Birney with two divisions up the Darbytown road. The enemy has retreated as he advanced, and Birney has reached and occupied the entrench-ments which the enemy took from Kantz and were fortifying for themselves. Our loss has been small, not one-eighth of the enemy's We have about one hundred prisoners.

EVERYTHING GOING ON RIGHT.

No Fighting Since Saturday OUR ARMY READY.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Everything remains quiet in front of Petersburg. No firing has taken place since Saturday last, with the exception of occasional skirmishing btween our cavalry and the rebel scouting parties who prowl around the flanks of the army to find some place weak enough to warrant an attack but they weak enough to warrant an attack, but they invariably find our men wide awake and ready to give them a warm welcome. The engine of the mail train ran off the track last night at Park station, caused by the the carelessness of some of those in charge. No one was hurt.

The weather is very fine and favorable for military movements. Important events may be expected at any time.

THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY. OPINIONS OF THE CHARLESTON "MERCURY" ON

EARLY'S EXPEDITION AND HIS DEFRATS - SE-VERE CRITICISM OF THE REBEL MILITARY

Washington, Oct. 7. Files of the Charleston (S. C.) papers, including those of the 28th ult., have been received here.

The Mercury contains a letter from Richmond admitting that "the situation" is seri ous. "Fisher's Hill," the correspondent says "is the strongest position in the Shenandoal valley, and Early has been driven from that and to insure deliverance we must call out and concentrate every available man."

The Mercury says: "When Early assumed the aggressive and crossed the Potomac into Maryland, we ventured to express the opinion that such a movement could produce nothing but evil to our cause. The subsequent burn-ing down of Chambersburg, and the military flourishes about Washington, only confirmed our fears. Time has passed on, and now we see realized the fruits of this expedition. The realized the fruits of this expedition. The army it raised is in the valley of Virginia before General Early. It has defeated him in two battless. Now is this all. These two bettles have added powerfully in the enforcement of the draft now going on in that country, and will thus add tens of thousands more to our enemies in the field. To our comprehension it was clear to the field. sion it was clear that Early's expedition into Maryland was like that of General Longstreet to Knoxville. It was a part of that kind of policy which has continually clogged our success, and destroyed its fruits before they are realized. It is this which has cost us the half of Georgia. General Hood was faithful to it when he sent all his cavalry away and insured the fall of Atlanta."
